By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — After months of silence, John Diefenbaker Thursday spoke out on the Conservative leadership question.

He will be around, he says, and leading his party "for years to come."

For years?

"You heard me. Get it right. Put it down," he instructed, "for years."

He was reacting, this time within attributable quotes, to a front page report in a Toronto Tory-leaning newspaper that in September, when he reaches 70, he would be retiring.

"Why don't they ask me first, before they write those stories?" he wanted to know. "If they had asked me, they would have known the truth."

But Mr. Diefenbaker, repeatedly over recent months had been asked, and each time brushed off the question with a wave of his hand or a laugh, but never a direct quote.

Fulton Mapping Fight to Finish?

By FRASER KELLY

OTTAWA — E. Davis Fulton may soon mount a fight-to-the-finish campaign to oust Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker from top spot in Progressive Conservative Party.

He told friends in Montreal last week he plans to make the decision when he meets with his committee by the end of June.

During his recent visit to Ontario and Quebec the 48-year-old former justice minister was urged by several supporters to come into the open and challenge the chief.

He said he wouldn't start the fight unless he was certain he could win. He knows that failure will smash his dreams of becoming prime minister of Canada.

The soft-spoken and articulate Rhodes scholar outlined his views with a tough determination which indicated to some observers he has profited from the drubbing he took as Conservative leader in British Columbia.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russians report that Luna 5 will miss the moon by nearly 100,000 miles because of a malfunction in the steering mechanism. It was due to hit the moon today.

Eyes Add Ears

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A spokesman for postal workers said Thursday new Fort William post office has 40 devices placed so employee conversations can be monitored.

Robert Walker, president of Postal Employees Association said the group has arranged a meeting with Postmaster-General Rene Tremblay.

The new post office was a centre of controversy last year because of plans for the installation of peepholes in a men's washroom. The employees were successful in keeping peepholes out of the washroom, but accepted them on the working floor.

Mr. Walker said "listening devices are linked with the peepholes; mirror glass of the peephole can be pushed out a little so conversations on the working floor can be heard."

CANADA, INDIA 'CLOSE'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Shastri of India set foot on the western hemisphere for the first time Thursday.

He said after his arrival by Air India jet from Cairo that it was especially fitting that his first visit to North America should be to the great country of Canada.

He said during a welcoming ceremony at Uplands Airport that India and Canada are far apart geographically but are very near each other in friendship. Both countries set the highest store on freedom and democracy which both deeply cherish.

Prime Minister Pearson met Mr. Shastri at the foot of the ramp from the plane which flew from its cockpit two small flags, one the Canadian Maple Leaf and the other the orange-white-green tricolor of India.

Mr. Pearson said that in the 15 years since India's independence the links between the two countries have enlarged and multiplied.

Pyjama Fame

LONDON (Reuters)—The Early Bird communications satellite entered the British export drive Thursday when an air-freight company signalled the New York office that 5,000 pairs of men's pyjamas were being flown across the Atlantic.

Appeasement Not Right But Neither Is War

OTTAWA (UPI)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin warned Thursday that appeasement in Viet Nam would only postpone the day when a "strong stand" must be taken against Communist aggression.

At the same time, he told the Commons external affairs committee that to seek a solely military solution in the Southeast Asian country carried the danger of bringing Russian military might directly into the conflict.

Insurgency in Thailand?

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI)—U.S. defense official John McNaughton says a Communist-inspired insurgency similar to the one in South Viet Nam may be started in Thailand.

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China said that the potentially active combat role for American troops in Viet Nam provided Red China "with an even greater right to send volunteers and join the war against the United States."

"The United States is rapidly heading toward a Korean-type war," the Peking People's Daily said in an editorial.

Women Dismayed

Man Strips at Laundry

COURTENAY—Taking wet clothes to a coin laundry to dry them is one thing, but taking off wet clothes and running around nearly nude in a laundromat is another, as Ernest Price found out here.

Magistrate John Ryland fined Price $20 and gave him a tongue lashing after court was told Price took off all his wet clothes with the exception of an undershirt and was running in and out of the laundry, much to the dismay of the customers, mostly female.

Asked how much he had to drink, Price told police, "a couple of wine," but they were unable to establish whether he meant a couple of drinks or a couple of bottles.

Bloody Battle of Dong Xoai

FOES LOCKED IN KEY TOWN

SAIGON (AP)—A bloody battle for Dong Xoai still hung in the balance today after South Vietnamese government troops retook the district headquarters compound. Strong Viet Cong forces held the remainder of the town and guerrillas presumably still had the airfield under a deadly field of fire.

Cabinet Unity Strained

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Wilson's support of the U.S. decision to provide ground support for South Vietnamese forces may cause a rift in the British cabinet, the Times said Thursday.

The Times said the firmness with which Wilson and his foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, aligned Britain with the latest Washington policy "may be repugnant to other cabinet ministers."

London: The Daily Telegraph said the president should be more communicative about his plans for Viet Nam, but said the United States "has no choice but to fight on until the Communists realize that they cannot win and must negotiate."

Amsterdam: The Dutch Socialist newspaper Het Vrije Volk said it did not wish to call secretary of State Rusk and defense secretary McNamara warmongers, but believes their policies in Viet Nam carry risks for the entire world.

Hamburg: The newspaper Die Welt said "the extension of the U.S. military engagement in Viet Nam should do much to dispel all doubt about America's readiness to defend the freedom of this land more effectively than previously."

Paris: The newspaper Combat said: "Not only are American troops in Viet Nam going to take part directly in the war, but they are going to be more numerous. So ends the fiction put out up to now that American troops were in Viet Nam only to 'advise.'"

A U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said harassing fire was reported throughout the hours of darkness and 21 air strikes were flown against Viet Cong positions at the district capital, 60 miles north of Saigon.

They said they had no reports on the results of the air strikes, but all aircraft expended bombs and other fire-power during the attack.

HELICOPTERS LOST

The spokesman said the last report listed one American killed, 13 wounded and 17 missing. This total of American casualties included the crews of two helicopters lost during the fighting Thursday. The military officials here said at least four Americans were aboard each helicopter.

Viet Nam 'Dirty Affair'

PARIS (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle said Thursday night the United States is involved in "a dirty affair" in Viet Nam.

He said "Americans with their tanks, their trucks and their airplanes, must realize that there are others in the world than themselves and the Soviet Union."

"When that happens, things will go better because we have nothing against them."

Einar Must Go! Opposition Chorus

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Leaders of B.C.'s three opposition parties joined Thursday in a demand for Einar Gunderson to resign his government jobs.

The move came on the heels of Mr. Gunderson's earlier admission that he is in charge of Secord campaign funds. He holds appointments with the PGE, B.C. Hydro, B.C. Ferry, UBC and the Bank of B.C.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said it was intolerable that the Secord "No. 1 bagman" should also occupy these positions of great influence.

"Mr. Gunderson should resign and dedicate himself full-time, if he wishes, to raising money for Social Credit. I'm not disputing the right to collect funds for a political party. I just don't think the man who does it should wear two hats."

In Kamloops, Conservative leader E. Davis Fulton also called for Mr. Gunderson's resignation.

From the various political offices he holds or as director of the Social Credit political fund — or both — is clearly called for," the Tory leader said.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said he held Premier Bennett "completely responsible" for the development of what he termed machine politics in B.C.

"All the hand-washing and blind-eye work cannot absolve the premier from this responsibility," said Mr. Strachan.

"If he wishes to rectify this shocking situation, the premier must immediately rescind all Gunderson appointments and institute a general cleanup of Social Credit, Gunderson and the backroom boys must go."

Mr. Strachan said the record supports NDP charges that Secord's "shake down business" to obtain campaign funds.

"The present government of B.C. is nothing more than government by bagmen and hucksters..." the NDP leader said.

Williamson enters car on way to jail

Williamson: Six Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—Public relations man Al Williamson was sentenced Thursday to six months in jail and fined $1,000 in Supreme Court here for forging and uttering the "Dear Hal" letter.

Williamson, 60, collapsed in the prisoner's box when found guilty last Friday. He was pale but stoic when sentenced by Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe.

He embraced and kissed his sobbing wife before he was taken into custody prior to transfer to Oakalla jail to serve the sentence.

"FORGIVE THEM"

"Dear God, forgive them," sobbed his wife.

Williamson received the fine and jail term for forging a letter to prime ministerial aide Hal Dornan in the name of Premier Bennett.

He received a concurrent term of six months on the second charge of uttering the forgery — causing Mr. Dornan to act on the letter as if it were genuine.

Mr. Justice Munroe said the $1,000 fine must be paid by July 30 or Williamson must serve an additional six months.

MAY APPEAL

Williamson's lawyers, Lloyd McKenzie and Tom Braidwood, said the matter of appeal is under consideration.

In passing sentence, the justice said he took into consideration Williamson's age, previous good conduct, and the jury's

Space Twins Return Home Johnson to Arrive Today

HOUSTON (AP)—Space hero James McDivitt and Edward White came home Thursday to the grandest welcome of them all—the kisses of their wives and wild hugs of their children.

Then they told of sighting three mystery satellites during their July 3-7 space flight, and got word that the president of the United States will fly to Houston to congratulate them personally.

A space agency official said President Johnson offered to come here rather than have the astronauts at his Texas ranch, as he had suggested earlier.

The astronauts told Johnson they would like to share his congratulations with others who took part in the flight.

Apparently whatever award the president has for the astronauts, he will make today. He had told them previously he had "a little something" he wanted to give them.

White, with Wife Pat, Gets Hug from Daughter, Bonnie, 9

Also today, the astronauts will talk about their adventure at a televised press conference now scheduled for 9 a.m. PDT.

News of the sighting of a third satellite came while the Gemini IV space twins began describing to space experts every detail of their epochal mission, including White's superbly photographed walk in space.

HAD SWIM
The first debriefing session came after a joyous homecoming, a birthday party for McDivitt, who was 33 Thursday, and a swim for White in a neighbor's backyard pool.

McDivitt said the first satellite he saw was a cylindrical object over Hawaii. He took five frames of movie film of it, but officials said all they show is an unidentifiable white dot with a tail of light and a fanlike glow.

NO PHOTOGRAPHS
The second sighting was over Asia, but the sun's glare prevented any recognizable photographs.

The third was over China. Officials said McDivitt described it as looking like "a bright star moving fast." He did not attempt to make pictures of it. Thursday was the astronauts' first day home since May 23, when they left for Cape Kennedy on the start of their journey, which took them 62 times around the globe, a total of 1,608,884 miles.

LONDON (Reuters) — The Duke of Edinburgh was 44 Thursday. Guns thundered on the sides and flags flew on public buildings here to mark his birthday.

St. Paul's Ceremony

Magna Carta Recalled

LONDON (UPI) — A distinguished audience headed by Queen Elizabeth Thursday attended services in St. Paul's Cathedral commemorating the sealing of the Magna Carta by King John at Runnymede 750 years ago.

Runnymede is now the site of Britain's memorial to the late President Kennedy. Dr. Michael Ramsey, Anglican primate, linked the past with the present in his sermon during the service.

Dr. Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury, recalled the sealing of the Magna Carta in June, 1215, to an audience which included Prince Philip, Prime Minister Wilson, scarlet-robed judges of the high court and others from Britain and abroad.

The barons forced King John to meet them at Runnymede on June 19 and five days later he placed his seal on the charter which defined their rights and became the traditional source of the rights of all free Britons.

Hellyer Names New Commanders

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of Air Commodore Frederick L. Sharp, 46, to head the Armed Forces' Integrated Training Command and Maj.-Gen. Robert P. Rothchild, 50, as head of Materiel Command was announced Thursday by Defence Minister Hellyer.

The minister also confirmed previous reports that Lt.-Gen. Jean Victor Allard, 52, will direct the new Mobile Command and Rear-Admiral William M. Landymore, 46, will take charge of Maritime Command.

Deputy mobile commander will be Air Commodore Frederick S. Carpenter, 50, and the present heads of Air Defence Command and Air Transport Command will remain in those posts. Air Vice-Marshal Murray D. Lister, 53, heads air defence and Air Commodore Reginald J. Lane, 45, air transport.

The announcement also confirmed that Rear-Admiral Michael G. Stirling, 50, of Kelowna, B.C., will be deputy commander of Maritime Command. He now is the navy's flag officer for the Pacific coast, based at Esquimalt.

Air Commodore Sharp, a native of Moosemin, Sask., now is serving at headquarters as director-general of management engineering and automation. He is to be promoted to air vice-marshal when his new assignment takes effect.

Gen. Rothchild was born at Ochrane, Ont., and has been quartermaster-general of the army.

Air Commodore Carpenter, of Toronto and Ottawa, now runs Maritime Air Command at Halifax. Another RCAF officer will be named to that job shortly.

Imbert Denies Slayings

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) — The "reconstruction" junta government of Gen. Antonio Imbert Thursday night denied any connection with alleged executions on the outskirts of the capital city of the Dominican Republic.

The denial came hard on the heels of a request by Jose Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, for expert criminologists to be sent to inspect an execution site where half-burned remains of bodies were found earlier this week.

"COMMUNIST TRICK"
An official government spokesman quoted Imbert as saying the alleged executions "smell of a Communist trick."

The spokesman added: "Gen. Imbert flatly denies any connection between the burned corpses at Villa Mella and the government of national reconstruction."

Both United Nations and OAS officials now have inspected the burned bodies and possible gravesites, 12 miles from Santo Domingo, which were reported to the UN Monday by priests from the office of the papal nuncio, Mgr. Emmanuele Carls.

Protect the Buyer

Chill Contracts

TORONTO (CP) — A two-day "cooling off period" during which a buyer could legally squawk out of a contract made with a door-to-door salesman was recommended today by the Ontario Legislature's select committee on consumer credit.

This proposal was one of 25 made by the committee to help protect Ontario consumers. The idea was borrowed from Britain, where householders already have the right to repudiate contracts made with door-to-door salesman.

Diamond Cornerstones

The American Gem Society and its members classify diamonds according to four factors—Cutting, Color, Clarity and Carat Weight. Of these, it is cutting, color and clarity which determines the per-carat price of average-size gems.

Accuracy of cutting is of prime importance to the beauty of your diamond since any deviation from ideal proportions noticeably affects fire and brilliance of the stone.

Let our trained gem expert explain this and other quality points to you in detail when selecting your gem.

MEMBER AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

Clarity refers to the degree a stone is free of interior or exterior blemish when viewed under 10-power magnification. Our special gem microscope helps us determine each diamond's exact clarity grade.

Color refers to the crystal-clear absence of any color in the body of a diamond. Value falls as the common tinge of yellow appears in the stone.

Wheels for Martha Allen*

Martha Allen is a book-keeper. She's single. And for twenty years, Martha relied on her friends and relatives for transportation. Until she decided it was time to buy her own car. Knowing nothing about cars, Martha asked her brother-in-law for advice. He recommended Goodwill Used Cars. He was a Goodwill owner himself. He knew that his sister-in-law could rely on the man who displayed the Goodwill sign to give her a good deal on a good car.

He was right. Martha's got wheels now. She's driving her own 1964 DeSoto convertible. And with the lift it's given her, her neighbours hardly know her. Martha Allen likes the deal she got. And the confidence she gets from knowing her car's protected by a Goodwill Warranty.

Word gets around. More and more people are shopping Goodwill every day. And for good reason. Goodwill dealers sell new Pontiacs, Buicks, Cadillacs and GMC Trucks. They've got lots at stake in their community. So you can rely on them to give you the best deals on the best used cars in town.

The Real Issue

THE RAPID DRIFT of this country toward welfare state under the Pearson government is beginning to cause some concern in the highly populated and thus more politically influential areas of eastern Canada.

So disturbed is one well-known Toronto public relations firm over the direction Ottawa is taking that it has devoted the major part of its periodical publication to sounding a warning that the Liberal government is killing liberalism in Canada.

"Much of the legislation being enacted in Parliament today," it says, "is at variance with the avowed principles of the party in power; and nobody in the party seems to be concerned or even aware of the incongruity of the policies they are pursuing or of where such policies are leading them."

"The Liberal party today is accused of abandoning the liberal philosophy which believes in human rights, human freedom, human dignity, and human responsibility; and of espousing the socialist fallacy of an easy road to Utopia through government planning and the regimentation of the citizens."

The publication goes on to say that the Liberal Party took the wrong turn when it placed its policy-making in the hands of young enthusiasts in its ranks who brought in a program "essentially socialistic and utterly opposed to true liberal thinking."

It predicts that unless something is done soon to define clearly the Liberal philosophy, the party will find itself unequally yoked with the believers in totalitarian government; and liberalism in Canada will be as dead as it was in Mussolini's Italy or Hitler's Germany.

It also contends that liberalism and socialism cannot co-exist in the same party and that wherever they have tried so to co-exist, liberalism has ceased to exist at all.

The public relations journal believes that the real issue that should be dividing political parties today is whether Canadians want to live as obedient servants or to be free.

"Shall they obey an all-powerful government pledged to plan the country's economy, to regulate all industry and all lives, to dictate occupations, earnings, the kind of insurance all must buy and how much earnings the individual shall be allowed to keep?"

Or shall men "be free and responsible, free to plan and direct their own lives, to choose their own occupations, to buy the kinds of insurance best suited to their own needs, and willing to accept responsibility for the results of their own management?"

Whether these conclusions will be accepted as true or false will largely depend on the political affiliation of the reader. But regardless of partisan preference the journal makes its point well—a point which may be taken as a challenge not only to the two major political parties but to every citizen entitled to a vote.

A Marked Advance

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA Medical Plan announced in detail this week is neither "an excellent plan for all the people of the province" as described in one quarter nor "practically useless" as portrayed in another. Most citizens probably will welcome it as a good system that could be better; a marked advance but not an ultimate achievement.

The medical coverage almost certainly will not be within the means of everyone who would like to have it. Retired persons and others barely above the income levels prescribed for government assistance in paying the premiums will in many cases find it extremely difficult to subscribe. Sometimes it seems that legislators living in comparative affluence have little knowledge of what $10 or even $5 a month means to hard-pressed families or individuals on small incomes.

It has been asserted also that there are some 18,000 persons on social assistance without cards entitling them to free medical service, who are hardly apt to be able to afford the fees.

Nor is the plan truly comprehensive in the way the term is often used. It offers a fuller range of services than generally available under the private schemes, but—especially without the provision of free or low-cost drugs—it falls far short of being complete health insurance.

Except if one is a partisan opponent of the government, however, there is no reason to dwell on the shortcomings of this form of medicare and ignore its virtues.

Not all British Columbians will be able to benefit from the plan if they are not already otherwise covered. But many thousands who have been unable to obtain private coverage because of being in the "high risk" category or unable to afford it because of their economic circumstances will find it a blessing. Experience can be expected to lead to improvement. And while waiting for the national medical insurance system which is in prospect, it is infinitely better than nothing.

Enemy in the Woods

LOGGERS, ALWAYS conscious of the fire hazard, are taking the precaution of working early morning shifts and quitting the woods in the danger period which is at peak in the afternoon.

Even with the expectation of a break in the long, dry spell of May and early June, forestry officials are concerned about the general conditions in the timberlands of the Vancouver Forest District, which includes all Vancouver Island.

The human agency is by far the leading cause of fire in all but the most remote areas. In the Langford area, for example, there were 60 fires last season. No fewer than 50 were caused by carelessness—or recklessness, as in the case of children deliberately lighting fires in the bush.

Last year was the best in B.C.'s history as far as fire loss is concerned. There were 1,120 fires and the cost of suppression was a mere $121,000. Nevertheless the loss in timber was calculated at nearly $1,500,000.

In bad years, like '58 and '61, the cost of fire-fighting runs to $5,000,000 with the total of outbreaks over 3,000, and the loss of assets $8,500,000 and $13,000,000 in those respective seasons.

The aggregate loss for the past decade has been well over $31,000,000. The gross loss, including wages, would be appreciably higher.

The concern of government and logging interests is understandable.

The public should share it. It would be sensible for each of us to make caution a habit.

"What about the 'horrors' we grown-ups have to watch!"

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing was ...
By TOM TAYLOR

THE "tribulations" captioned Churchill tied to the Com-mandos, not knowing he would be taken at his word in Canada two decades later, has been with us for a year now, in intent if not in terminology, so his evolution, coming closer and closer, is not new. The three-in-one serviceman is due soon to be a fact, especially if a common uniform and a common rank structure put him into a common mould.

Having an academic interest in this subject I find some of Mr. Hellyer's convolutions of some amusement. They tickle my wonder.

The latest of his integration moves, for instance—the overall maritime command that stations the chief in Halifax and his deputy in Esquimalt. I suppose the new authority will be more nominal than real, else the Pacific Fleet will function by remote control, but I have always assumed that a deputy of any kind was located close to the man he was supposed to deputize for.

Assuming for instance the Atlantic commander took the flu and had to stay in bed for a few days, with a nurse waving official documents away, would his deputy jump into a jet and fly immediately to the whole breadth of the country to Halifax?

However, doubtless Mr. Hellyer has a neat answer for such naive questions. A good politician is never short of the apt even if seemingly contradictory reply.

Vide for example the defence minister's remark, apropos the tripartite rank and uniform in contemplation that this departure from the military norm will be approached with caution, since it was important to maintain traditions!

In my simple habit of thought I can't think of a more drastic break with tradition than the integration processes Mr. Hellyer is now promoting.

The odd speculation has crossed my mind, also, as to what would happen should the government change and a new defence minister be installed who didn't cotton to Mr. Hellyer's ideas about how to run the armed forces. Might he deintegrate the services?

I can appreciate the desire for cohesion, nevertheless, when it comes to finding rank terms that will suit soldier, sailor and airman alike. There will be no separate soldier, sailor or airman, apparently, although these roles will still exist, and I should think the search for new terminology to be one of the most difficult of all integration problems.

A semantic headache which I confess intrigues me no end.

And yet, you know, time will gloss whatever nomenclature is adopted. To those who wear or have worn a uniform it seems unthinkable that a warship's captain should rank as a lieutenant-colonel, for instance, yet to the AB yet unborn such an anomaly would doubtless be taken in stride.

Not that I expect the skipper of a DE to be so called. But I await his new title and all the others too, with no little interest.

P.S. Since my return to this space not a few letters have come from readers welcoming me back and voicing generous concern for my future well-being. I am deeply grateful, and I hope they will permit me to thank them collectively, as I do now, for their kindly missives.

Change of Political Climate?

A Cry from Young America

By ISAAC DEUTSCHER
(First of two parts.)

THE United States is living through a great political thaw which brings the promise of a profound change in its political climate. After the long and dreary period of cold war conformity, after nearly two decades during which successive administrations were free to carry out the major acts of their foreign policy without meeting with any domestic opposition, a loud cry of protest against President Johnson's armed intervention in Viet Nam and Latin America is at last resounding from coast to coast.

The cry comes from the vigorous thrust of the young American generation, from almost every university in the country. Several thousand professors and hundreds of thousands of students participate in the protest movement.

Curiously, the first impulse came from one of the lesser-known seats of learning, the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, near Detroit. On the campus of that university the first so-called teach-ins were held in March; and Michigan has till now remained the true vanguard of the movement.

"These teach-ins," one of the initiators writes to me, "were usually all-night marathons, during which lectures were given, seminars were held, and discussion was encouraged on the subject of Viet Nam." Some of the teach-ins were organized for the purpose of protesting against the government's action in Southeast Asia and included only speakers who opposed the current American policy. Others have been two-day affairs, at which pro-government spokesmen debate with those who attack the war in Viet Nam. No fewer than 3,000 students attended the Michigan teach-ins.

The example was infectious. In April the movement spread to the wilds of Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Chicago, Berkeley (California) and others. Press, radio and television had to take note. Official Washington grew nervous. After an attempt to push-poop the protest, the administration sent out teams of high officials to defend its policy on the campuses.

The teams, including one led by Mr. Averell Harriman, the famous diplomat and banker, were met with a resounding "No." The teams were met with a resounding "No."

On the morning of May 15 I sat on a platform in the huge ballroom of the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington. Ironically, from the same platform Barry Goldwater addressed his followers at his great electoral meeting last November. The teach-in had begun.

About 5,000 people, according to The New York Times, were filling the hall, among them 700 professors. The debate began at 9 a.m. and lasted till well past midnight.

The entire proceedings were broadcast to over a hundred campuses, where 120,000 students listened in. One of the television networks also transmitted the whole debate, and repeated the transmission in the next few days. The audience looked neat and tidy, almost respectable. It followed the speeches with tense, concentrated attention. It did not at all resemble the public one usually sees at British nuclear disarmament demonstrations; there were hardly any evangelizing priests here, or beatniks and eccentrics. Yet there could be no doubt about the mood of the audience. It listened politely to pro-government speakers, but demonstrated again and again its overwhelming agreement with the government's critics, especially with the more radical critics.

The three speakers at the morning session were Professor Hans Morgenthau, political scientist of the University of Chicago and former adviser to the state department; myself, and Professor Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. of Harvard, ex-adviser to presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Professor Morgenthau devastatingly exposed the incoherence and "madness" of the American intervention in Viet Nam. He warned that if President Johnson continued his policy, he would find himself compelled to send up to 400,000 soldiers to Viet Nam within the next six months. He accused the White House of deluding itself and the nation about the realities and the prospects in Viet Nam. All of America's military power will prove helpless against the Viet Cong guerrillas supported by the local population. The logic of the intervention led to an American war against China, yet the United States cannot alter the fact that China is bound to be Asia's dominant power. The speaker concluded with an emphatic call for the withdrawal of American troops from Viet Nam.

Professor Morgenthau spoke as an expounder of realpolitik, as one who accepts the necessity for the great powers to recognize each other's claim to its respective sphere of influence. He did not question the basic anti-Communist premises of the United States and NATO's policies. Following Professor Morgenthau at the rostrum, I regarded this precisely to be my task.

I tried to set the Viet Nam conflict in a historical perspective. I surveyed the false scares, the misconceptions, and the delusions of two decades of cold war, all reproduced in Viet Nam. I criticized the basic assumptions of the Atlantic Alliance; the notion that the Soviet Union and/or China constitute a major military threat to Europe or other parts of the world; the idea that almost every revolutionary flare-up in the world must be due either to Russian or Chinese instigation; the tendency of the American policy-makers to behave towards the Communist world either with arrogance or in a panic; their inclination either to view the Communist world as a monolithic bloc and to ignore its internal differences, or to exaggerate those differences and indulge in crude and reckless attempts to exploit them. Having until recently believed that the Russo-Chinese controversy was merely a "canard of Khrushchevite propaganda," the American administration is now seeking to drive a wedge between Russia and China through the living body of the Vietnamese people. Even if this crisis is unprovoked somehow, other crises threatening to escalate into nuclear war will recur as long as the United States persists in acting as the world's gendarme of counter-revolution.

Professor Schlesinger was supposed to defend the government's policy; but he made his case rather half-heartedly. Alluding to a remark made by Dean Rusk, the state secretary, about the "gullibility" of the academic critics of the administration, Mr. Schlesinger spoke scathingly of the "gullibility of state secretaries." He admitted that the United States made a disastrous mistake when it allowed itself to become involved in the Vietnamese civil war nearly a decade ago; but having become involved, he said, it could not now withdraw. He assured our audience that President Johnson was not seeking to escalate the war, but to achieve a negotiated settlement; he even hinted enigmatically (as someone who knew more than he could divulge that somewhere behind the scenes negotiations on Viet Nam are already being conducted).

International Commentary

Fuel Breakthrough

By COLIN JONES from London

LUCKY is the industrial nation that can base its economic strength upon cheap and indigenous sources of fuel.

Nineteenth-century Europe and North America were in that favored situation. But increasingly, as rising industrial production has outstripped local supplies of cheaply worked coal, 20th century Europe has had to look to other parts of the world for a large part of its additional energy requirements.

At present, plenty of oil is available at relatively cheap prices, but Europe's import needs are growing fast and the foreign exchange cost is heavy. Eventually, though the day may now seem far distant, the world's reserves of oil and natural gas may not prove inexhaustible.

Thus for some years Britain, like other Western European nations, has been faced with an awkward dilemma in its fuel policy. Unless new sources of cheap home grown energy could be developed, the nation's manufacturers would be provided with abundant cheap fuel only at the price of a heavy and rapidly growing import burden. Alternatively, the country's balance of payments could be protected only by saddling its industry with fuel costs significantly higher than its major industrial rivals.

That does not mean that British coal cannot be mined as cheaply as any in the world. Despite the narrowness and depth underground of the seams, substantial tonnages can be and are mined cheaply. Intensive mechanization and modernization—the first mine in the world to be operated by remote control will be opened in Britain in July—are yielding further cost savings.

But, in order to achieve maximum output, British coal mining has to work a lot of expensive marginal capacity.

It was for these reasons that Britain chose, rather more than a decade ago, to invest heavily in the development of nuclear power, and much more recently, in the hunt for oil or natural gas under the North Sea off her east coast.

It will still be some years yet before it can be determined whether the North Sea harbors large and commercially workable deposits of oil or gas. But the long search for commercially competitive nuclear power has at last, after the expenditure of at least $2,600 million, proved successful.

From a number of rival tenders for the first power station in Britain's "second generation" nuclear power program—tenders based upon the most advanced American and British designs of nuclear reactors—one design was pre-eminent. It was a British design, "Advanced Gas-Cooled Reactor."

After the most rigorous technical appraisal yet given to such equipment, the experts concluded that a large 1,200 megawatt power station built to this design by 1970 would produce electricity at least 10 per cent more cheaply than a contemporary coal or oil fired power station of comparable size. This is a major breakthrough, fulfilling all the hopes placed in nuclear power and fully justifying the effort and money poured into the program. It means that Britain can now reckon on keeping ahead of its growing energy requirements without running up a massive import bill or overstretching its coal mining industry.

And if the North Sea treasure hunt succeeds as well, Britain will be able to base its economic expansion upon two additional sources of cheap indigenous energy.

But fuel is not the only base upon which Britain is planning its future economic growth. The importance placed upon the development of commercially viable nuclear power is symptomatic of the effort being mounted to exploit what has been called the scientific phase of the industrial revolution.

Inventiveness and skill is Britain's main resource as a trading nation. But it is not only the major developments, like nuclear power, jet engines and nylon, that matter. The organization and manning of production also count.

In the application of computers to the management problems of a single steel mill or a worldwide tanker fleet and oil refinery network—to cite just two examples—British firms are well in the lead.

To make the best use of Britain's limited supply of industrial manpower, a complete new system of industrial training is now in process of being launched.

Firms that do not or are unable to train their new recruits will pay levies to help meet the cost to firms that do.

A major program has been launched to tap the under-utilized resources of Britain's older developed or less prosperous regions. The educational system is being reviewed and university facilities expanded, especially on the technological side, so that future generations of Britons are better equipped. Two new major graduate schools of business have been formed.

The country's road, rail, and port facilities are being overhauled so as to support a faster rate of economic growth.

All these measures, and many more, are being tied together in a national plan for faster economic growth.

This plan, like those of other countries, is being drawn up on the basis of a large number of detailed estimates. But precise figures matter less than evolving a coherent set of policies, stretching right across the whole range of economic activity, government and industry. Work on this plan began several months ago and its first fruits should appear in the autumn.

But its real harvest will be reaped in the years to come, rather like this summer's development of commercial nuclear power has grown from seeds planted just over a decade ago.

Ottawa Offbeat

Living Dangerously

By RICHARD JACKSON, Columnist Ottawa Bureau

DEFENCE Minister Paul Hellyer flew home from Paris the other day with a supercargo of junketing parliamentary newspaper, radio and television correspondents.

Oddly, he came home without the Croix de Guerre. And so far no wounds.

For boldly and unafraid he flew to France well knowing that for some time now there has been a certain element of personal risk for politicians in taking the press-radio-TV corps along for the ride to Gay Paree.

There have been a couple—shucks, let's be honest, a half dozen—incidents on such excursions, amusing to everybody, perhaps, except the mutually embarrassed principals, publicists and politicians alike.

But then, the minister of national defence is supposed to be a brave man, anyway, isn't he?—so perhaps it wasn't really herodism all that far above and beyond the call of public relations duty to haul along the touring rubbernecks.

Maybe it's just that Paul Hellyer doesn't mind living dangerously—not after so far surviving the integration of the armed forces and the furling of their cherished Red-Ensigned service flags.

Some of the tales of the travelling publicists don't bear telling—not in the public prints, at least—but there is one that served as a sort of watershed.

After that particular one there was rather less disposition for the politicians to conveniently find spare seats on their VIP plane for their current publicity favorites.

That was the time, not so long ago, when members of the Canadian North Atlantic Treaty Organisation Parliamentary Association—MPs and senators—came home from Paris to read all about some of their gay goings-on in the six-bins of Montmartre.

One of their free-riding press-radio-TV guests had spilled the beans.

In print. For the prime minister, their wives and all the world to read.

Bennett Competed With Expo in Japan

B.C. Fair Appeal Angers Ottawa

CAPITAL REPORT

By IAN STREET

Premier Bennett said gleefully on his return last weekend that Ottawa was annoyed by the success of the two-week B.C. mission to the Orient.

This may, indeed, be reason for annoyance on the part of the federal government. But if there is animosity between the two governments it probably arises mainly from the premier's big push abroad for participation in the B.C. international trade fair.

He and his ministers never lost an opportunity to urge Japanese and Hong Kong businessmen to send their best products to Vancouver in 1967.

This dismayed federal government officials on the spot and puzzled the Pacific traders. Why? For the very good reason that Ottawa has sent its Expo 67 drum-beaters through the entire Pacific area drumming up support for the Montreal fair.

Now along comes upstart B.C. to say, in effect, you'll get better returns for your investment by showing your products in Vancouver.

It's never been clear why B.C. picked Canada's centennial year to stage its biggest international trade fair. Mr. Bennett has been cool from the start to anything like full participation by this province in the Montreal fair.

The present plan (which it is now too late to change) has us sharing an exhibit with three prairie provinces despite the fact that it's difficult to see what the four provinces have in common.

The Japanese—and probably Hong Kong as well—will be represented at both fairs. But since the one in Montreal is largely for prestige probably most of their traders will be in B.C.

To the Japanese, however, whose sense of national identity is such that they submerge differences for the common good, this type of "free enterprise" competition abroad is quite inexplicable.

The premier nevertheless was for the most part highly circumspect in his dealings abroad on matters that fall within the federal jurisdiction.

His much-publicized meeting in Hong Kong with representatives of Red China traders was arranged by the senior Canadian trade commissioner in the crown colony and the meeting took place in federal offices.

But it's impossible for Mr. Bennett to resist applying the needle to Ottawa and his good resolutions disappeared when he told reporters later that only the provinces—with jurisdiction over resources—could go abroad and talk international trade and foreign investment.

Mr. Pearson, typically, first was reported to have agreed with the Bennett stand; then later told the Commons he would like to study the full text of Premier Bennett's "interesting" remarks before commenting further.

The only time on the trip that the premier may have overstepped the protocol line was the occasion when he invited Prime Minister Sato to visit B.C.

The invitation was unofficial and it was understood that any further arrangements would be between Ottawa and Tokyo. But still this is a matter for national governments.

War Games Serious

Kids Taught To Hate, Kill

Chinese children learn to bayonet.

By A. C. MILLER, from Hong Kong

On rocky mountain slopes, around soggy village rice paddies, in tree and flower-fringed city parks and on boats in lakes and rivers, Communist China's 150-200,000 young people are being taught how to hate and kill.

Grin-faced youths, some no older than eight or nine, stand in lines with makeshift weapons. Their mentors below a command. The line lurches forward as the youths master the skill of bayoneting the enemy, or 100 arms sweep the air in simulated grenade throwing.

Small kites whip about the sky and the youngsters follow them intently with long stick-guns. It is anti-aircraft practice.

This is not fun and games. It is not a kind of play. It is all done in dead seriousness. And those who take it as play are soon set straight.

Nor is it sufficient to learn to shoot or throw grenades or bayonet the enemy. The children are taught to hate as well. They are taught to hate Americans and "U.S. Imperialism."

During the last few months, Chinese leaders have made greater efforts to give the country's young people military training. The youngsters are being prepared to "defend the motherland" and to aid their Vietnamese brothers "when the Vietnamese people have need of them."

Military training of children is not new for the Chinese Communists. Back in the 1930s when they held only small areas of southwest China, Mao Tse-tung and the other Red Chinese leaders fostered such training.

What sets the current campaign off is its intensity and scope. It is aimed at every young person in the nation, at those in the tiny and backward villages of rural China and at those studying physics at sophisticated Peking University.

This was confirmed by a directive from the Central Committee of the Youth Corps which appeared on May 13 in the Peking-published newspaper Chinese Youth Daily. The directive, sent to all branches of the Youth Corps, stated that "among young people widespread military physical exercises are to begin" to implement the idea of Mao Tse-tung of making "everybody a soldier."

The note said the youths must be prepared mentally and physically to be ready at all times for the defence of the country, in bitter hardship and heavy labor.

The Youth Corps directive on May 13, however, was not the date the campaign began. In the northern port city of Tientsin, for example, the students already had started shooting practice in May, 1964. Now the efforts are being stepped up.

More reports of military training for youth are beginning to appear from throughout China. In Kiangsu province in the southwest, a major circular was issued on May 14 regarding camping, swimming, shooting, signalling, parachuting and other military exercises.

Chungking University's spring athletics meeting this year concentrated on defence exercises, shooting, bayoneting, parachuting and 15 other related activities. Some 7,000 youths took part.

The Chinese Youth Daily reported in early May that thousands of youngsters were swimming across rivers and lakes as a military exercise "to learn not to be afraid of wind and peril."

Race Issues Major Topic

OTTAWA (CP) — Race relations in Africa again are expected by Canadian authorities to be the chief subject of discussion at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference opening in London June 17.

In the capital's view, relations between whites and non-whites will become even more dangerous in the years ahead than the cold war between the West and Russia has been.

The main value in the Commonwealth, which now has 10 African members and only four white originals, is seen to lie in the opportunity for blunt talk between the races.

Down with Groupthink!

Conformity Condemned

By NANCY PHILLIPS

Is "peace at any price" one of your mottos? No matter how justified your complaint, do you avoid making a scene?

Are you considered a well-adjusted member of the Group? Three "yes" answers will earn you the Model Employee badge (which shows a smiling extrovert on a field of togetherness), and three "no" answers will get you a Clearly Maladjusted button (which shows a troublemaker rampant on a field of protest).

I wonder if it ever occurs to anyone in this great democracy of ours, that we're being subtly robbed of a heritage the Communist countries deny by force?

By that I mean our individuality, our right to disagree with and be different from our fellow man. Conformity has never produced anything but mediocrity, but today the insidious pressures toward it are so great that the person who escapes them is something of an anachronism.

I'm not speaking here of the phony upstart who creates trouble without real provocation just to impress others. I'm talking about the person who becomes angry when anger is justified, who refuses to be friendly and outgoing toward those he dislikes, and who has the guts to protest loudly whenever he's treated like a statistical entity or a retarded child instead of an intelligent adult.

Why, for example, do so many of us put up with discourteous salespeople, indifferent service in expensive restaurants, and badly-behaved children (ours or anyone else's)?

Why do we submit, year after year after year, to the stupefying insidies of TV and radio commercials? Why do we behave like a herd of docile, hyperthyroid sheep when it comes to supercilious hotel clerks, bad garage mechanics, arrogant ticket agents, and fatuous, bumbling figures of authority everywhere?

Increasingly, it seems, our generation has been conditioned to swallow its anger — righteous though it may be. We've been taught to grin and bear it, to adjust to the Group. Why? Because the incontestable judgment of the Group upon any individual who dares to resist it, is that the individual is a troublemaker.

Teamwork and group action are desirable, certainly, but not as ends in themselves. What must be remembered is that true individualism has nothing to do with wearing a beard or living in a shocking pink house; it's the ability to think and make moral decisions as an individual.

No man is an island, true — but neither should he allow himself to be a faceless mass-manipulated cipher.

Why Gilbey's London Dry weds perfectly with Bitter Lemon.

The answer is remarkably simple.

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. But Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance of flavour for mixed gin drinks.

In fact, Gilbey's dry flavour has been an international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Gilbey's London Dry marries joyfully with the sharp new taste and lively bubbles of bitter lemon.

Prove it to yourself. Tonight.

21-Sizzle Salute Greet Vaniers

VANCOUVER (CP)—The two-day visit here of Governor General George Vanier and Mme. Vanier didn't exactly get off to a bang on their arrival Thursday—in fact it started with more of a sizzle.

The 15th Field Regiment—assigned the task of firing a 21-gun salute on the couple's arrival at Vancouver Airport—had run out of its supply of blank shells, the ones that go off with a bang.

Instead they were forced to use the second of two types of blank shells issued to the army for such occasions. The second type sizzle when they are fired.

LONELY DONNA
However, the Governor General and Mme. Vanier took the whole thing in stride.
Miss Richmond, pretty Donna Smyth, who was on hand with a bouquet for Mme. Vanier, apparently was forgotten in the brief ceremony.

As the ceremony ended the vice-regal couple entered their limousine.

Donna's plight caught the attention of Group Capt. D. C. Cameron.

He led the girl to the couple. The flowers were presented and Donna found herself being kissed on both cheeks by Mme. Vanier.

WHO YOU MARRY
Mme. Vanier visited the Convent of the Sacred Heart Thursday afternoon.

In her speech to the student gathering, Mme. Vanier admitted she is not a "learned woman."

"But I have two Ph.D.'s—honorary ones.
"I got them for marrying my husband," she said. "The lesson in this girls, is: Choose your husband."

Report Shows Corrupt Court

QUEBEC (CP)—A royal commission report disclosed Thursday that a "scandalously corrupt system" of fixing traffic offences and parking tickets was operated in Quebec City's municipal court for at least four years.

The report said the system had cost the city an estimated $100,000 a year.

Mayor Wilfred Hamel, court clerks, aldermen and lawyers were named in the report as having been involved in the operation of the system or at least aware of its existence.

The 350-page report was tabled in the legislative assembly by Justice Minister Wagner with the comment that it presented a sorry picture of the administration of justice.

Mr. Wagner said Andre Villeneuve, a Montreal lawyer, has been appointed to study the report and decide whether criminal charges should be laid.

The report said Municipal Judge Rodolphe De Blois, who resigned in 1963, was the author of the system. It said the court presided over by Judge De Blois had as its "principal function the giving of favors to accused persons clearly contrary to justice and the law, and prejudicial to the city."

Belinda was married in Holy Blossom synagogue to Robert Stanley Bennett, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bennett of Toronto. They will live in Los Angeles where Mr. Bennett is a television producer.

Best man was Belinda's twin brother Charles.

Contest Gets Top Billing

The Colonist King Fisherman Contest is featured in the Vancouver Island section of the British Columbia Digest magazine for June.

"Anglers who fish on Vancouver Island or the Gulf Islands this year will be able to fish in what is billed as the biggest fishing contest of its kind in the world," says the article.

"Entries last year came from 53 trout lakes, seven bass lakes, 28 rivers and about 150 salmon resorts in 14 major areas," it continues.

Judges Start Village Selection

A panel of judges has begun the job of selecting four Island youngsters from scores of applications to attend the Children's International Summer Village at Mill Bay.

Don Edwards, spokesman for the local organization, said the month-long gathering is "definitely" going ahead despite its financial difficulties.

The sponsoring committee needs a total of $8,000 for rental of facilities at Brentwood College, to pay staff and buy food. It has begun appealing to Island municipalities.

The village is aimed at promoting international understanding among the very young, and will draw four children from each of 10 nations, plus 10 counsellors.

The children will study nature, compete in sports, learn arts and crafts and demonstrate their national dances.

Farewell Dinner Amid Litter

By BILL STAVDAL

It was a moment of looking backward and looking forward Wednesday for 70 young YM-YWCA leaders gathered for dinner in the gymnasium of the old building at View and Blanchard.

The dinner, a season's end tribute to the teen-age volunteer sports instructors, was the last formal gathering to be held in the 55-year-old structure.

On July 1 the Y will move officially into its new $1,300,000 quarters at 280 Courtney Street, abandoning the building which has served an estimated 150,000 Victorians.

The youngsters' makeshift dining room was littered with gym equipment hastily pushed aside for them. A trampoline and dumbbells lay at one end of the room, vaulting horses and tumbling mats at the other. Rings hung overhead.

LEAKY PLUMBING

Plumbing festooned the walls and ceiling. At one place overhead a hole had been seen in the boards to get at plumbing, which leaks every time one resident upstairs takes a shower. In the air hung the smells of floor cleaner and swimming pool chlorine.

In the gathering were grandchildren of men who were Y members when the building's cornerstone was laid by Premier Richard McBride on August 16, 1910.

One of them was 15-year-old swimming instructor Craig Peden, whose grandfather, John Peden, still lives at 1154 McClure.

Grandfather John's name was included in a membership list sealed in the cornerstone by Premier McBride.

CEREMONY HELD

Flowers Nightingale had just died when the cornerstone ceremony was held. A short fundraising campaign had collected $100,000 to buy the site ($15,000), and pay the contractor ($70,000). The building served approximately 1,500 people a year at first, but demand for the Y's services increased until about 5,000 a year were using the place in its last years.

IT'S A CHALLENGE

Robert B. Hutchison, chairman of the Y's physical education committee, told the youngsters gathered Wednesday:

"It's something more than a move we're making. It's a challenge to help make the new building a success."

"The new building will be able to handle twice as many people as this one. We aren't going to be able to train leaders fast enough. We're counting on you."

Art Burgess, physical education director of the Y, looked forward to another aspect of life in modern quarters.

"We're going to have a real dining room — without the smells," he said after the dinner.

Despite the nostalgia generated by 55 years of life in the old brick building, Y members plan no special ceremony at its closing.

"We're just going to fold up quietly," said Mr. Burgess.

Province-Wide Holiday Boosted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ald. Harold Wilson, whose proposal for an August civil holiday in Vancouver was defeated last month by city council, has announced he will press for a province-wide civic holiday.

Ald. Wilson now wants city council to take the idea to the September meeting in Victoria of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

Power Shortage Seen

A serious power shortage in the winter of 1966-67 and a "critical" shortage for the winter of 1967-68 is possible for B.C. according to Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of B.C. Hydro.

Peace River power will not be available until 1968. Dr. Shrum, said industrial plants might have to be rationed.

The increased use of electricity in B.C. while creating this shortage would also bring down the price of Peace power when it becomes available.

Alarm Author Reassured By White House

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The man who is getting some of the blame for touching off the current stock market recession went to see President Johnson Thursday with a "resign" call ringing in his ears.

W. McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, came out of the encounter whole, and with a public assurance from President Johnson that there was no conflict within the administration.

The FRB chief was the author of the speech at Columbia University recently in which he suggested there were some disquieting similarities in the present economy, to those existing before the 1929 Wall Street crash.

The New York market, already jittery at that stage, has been going down ever since, largely because investors felt Mr. Martin was giving a warning from the pinnacle of the U.S. financial firmament that could not be ignored.

In the House of Representatives Mr. Martin has a long-standing critic in Representative Wright Patman, chairman of the Congress banking committee.

Just before Mr. Martin went to pay his weekly visit to the White House, Mr. Patman called on him to resign for making the speech that showed him to be out of time with the administration, and with creating a stock market collapse, as well as holding monetary and credit policies with which Mr. Patman did not agree.

Mr. Patman said the FRB chief with his money tightening policies, had precipitated every post-war recession in the U.S. and he should be replaced by someone who went along with the president's way of thinking. What happened in the meeting between the president and Mr. Martin is not known, but it did not produce a resignation.

The president anti-peddled any suggestion of friction within the administration, but at the same time showed he did not agree with Mr. Martin's appraisal of the economic situation. "We do not conclude that stock market prices are on the high side in relation to profits," the president told a press conference.

In this atmosphere of uncertainty the New York stock market vacillated merrily during Thursday's session. At one time it was up five points at another down seven, and was 3.35 points off at the close.

Some market observers think the corrective period has been nearly completed and stock prices are now at a reasonable level.

An official of the New York Exchange said the old timers would have been running 25 minutes late following the presidential announcement containing economic reassurances.

The new high speed tape handled the situation, but for the first time since it was introduced the tape had to move with digits removed to keep pace with sales.

COMFORT UNLIMITED
Canada Trust clients and customers with tired and aching feet will like the renovated Victoria branch office on the corner of View and Broad.

In a $70,000 expansion and re-designing project Canada Trust and its running-mate Harro and Erie, have entirely covered public and staff floor area with deep soft carpets, opulently gilded in shade.

"We have adopted the open look which is being used so much in new financial buildings," said Doug Abbott, Victoria office manager.

"The inside is in full view from the street. We have also increased our floor space by taking in a portion on View Street that was formerly a store."

street clock "which will add character to the building" said Mr. Abbott. "We are also piping in music."

The firm is holding open house for a week, beginning today, and Mr. Abbott welcomes customers and non-customers to pop in for tea and a guided tour of the premises.

RISE ARRESTED
The yield on the 91 day government of Canada treasury bills remained unchanged Thursday from a week ago at 3.95 per cent.

The yield has risen gradually from 3.61 on April 8, thus indicating a tightening of the short term money supply.

MARKET A PROBLEM
Capital expenditure in British Columbia could reach $2,400,000,000 a year by 1975, according to a financial executive, D. E. Fenton, vice-president of Laurende Financial Corporation.

Mr. Fenton was moderator of a round discussion held at the annual general meeting of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C. held at Kamloops.

Capital expenditures in B.C. were $1,700,000,000. He said development of secondary industry is B.C.'s key problem.

"Our population is too small to provide more than a modest domestic market," he said. "High freight rate costs make other marketing difficult."

SKENNA MAKES DEAL
Rio Algom has acquired the exclusive right and option to acquire Skenna Silver Mines Limited's 16 mining claims in the Highland Valley of B.C.

Rio Algom also has an option agreement with Lorne Mining Corporation on an adjoining copper-molybdenum property.

Weather Ship Launching Set

NORTH VANCOUVER (UPI)—An $11,000,000 weather and oceanographic ship, said to be the most modern in the world, is scheduled to be launched here June 29.

The 5,600-ton Canadian coast guard ship Vancouver will be stationed at weather station Papa, about 300 miles out in the Pacific.

The Vancouver, 404 feet long and to have a crew of 100, was a year in construction at Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. It will not be operational until June of 1966 because of scientific equipment installation and shake-down cruises, the company said.

Italians Freed In Mafia Slaying

Garden Notes

Raise 'Em with Care

By M. V. CHESNUT

In yesterday's column we discussed the growing of perennial flowers from seed, and in this connection I should point out that there is never any particular rush to get the seeds sown. Unlike the annuals which must be started early if you are to get a long season of bloom, the perennials are not going to bloom this year anyway, so an early start is not required. A sowing made in June or even early July should make plants big enough and strong enough to come safely through the winter.

I know, through my mail, that some home gardeners have become browned off and discouraged after making unsuccessful sowings of perennial seeds, but I am convinced that most of these failures have come about as a result of sowing in the open ground, using the same techniques as with the hardy annuals.

It is true, in theory at least, that perennials can be raised in this way, for a casual scattering of seeds is nature's method of propagating, but in actual practice it is very difficult to give tiny perennial seedlings the care they need for a good start in life unless the seeds are sown in pots, pans or boxes.

Under these conditions you have complete control of the soil texture, drainage, watering, lighting and all the other factors that govern the germination of the seeds and the development of the seedlings. You can protect the baby plants from the many ills and accidents of open garden life--from being washed out by heavy rain, getting lost or forgotten, scratched up by the family cat, scorched by the midday sun, eaten by slugs or pulled up in mistake for weeds.

You may remember the free Gloriosa Daisy seeds I distributed three years ago. These are true perennials, and I imagine quite a few readers found themselves sowing perennial seeds for the first time in their lives. The ones with which these tiny seeds germinated and grew surprised everybody--including me, for most perennial seeds take two to three weeks to come up; mine were showing in five days.

This couldn't have happened in an uncontrolled outdoor sowing. The sowing technique I described at that time--in pots, indoors, in porous sterilized soil--works just as well for other perennials as for the Gloriosa Daisy, although not necessarily with the same speed of germination. And, of course, the pots don't have to clutter up the windowills indoors at this time of the year.

If you don't have a greenhouse, a coldframe or a sunporch, the sown pots, covered with a sheet of plastic to retain moisture, can stand at the foot of a wall or hedge where they will be shaded from the sun through the hottest part of the day. It is a good idea, though, to sit them on gravel or coarse cinders drenched with household disinfectant or bleach to guard against the possibility of small slugs or earthworms entering through the drainage hole.

Some of the easier perennials to grow from seed will be listed and described in my next column.

Myrmecologist Finds Nobomessor Cockerellis He's Got Ants on His Mind

By CHARLES HILLINGER From Los Angeles

Roy Snelling, one of the world's 10 myrmecologists, has returned home with a pocketful of Nobomessor cockerellis.

It wasn't easy.

Snelling had been looking for nobomessor cockerellis for two years. He finally found them on a remote desert peak 30 miles southwest of Needles, Calif.

Once he spotted them he stayed awake all but four of 61 hours lying on his stomach, observing them.

Nobomessor cockerellis are shy black, slender, quarter-inch termites eating ants never before seen in California.

And Snelling was just the man to track them down. The 30-year-old Los Angeles county museum entomologist is a bonafide myrmecologist (a n scientist) in the west, and one of only 10 in the world.

Nobomessor cockerellis make an even 200 different species of ants he has found and catalogued to date.

Snelling is one of a handful of humans who have heard ants clicking and squeaking.

"Only a few species make audible noises," he explains, "but these that can be heard from as far away as six inches."

He's heard rare Mexican ants snap their jaws together, making a clicking clatter. And he's listened to other species squeak as they rubbed their stomachs together.

Snelling is a walking encyclopedia on ants.

"Non-workers live only three or four days. Workers have a life expectancy of 60 to 90 days. And a queen ant lives as long as 13 years," he said.

Snelling's ant collection at the museum is one of the finest in the world--40,000 specimens, 600 different species, the largest an inch-and-a-quarter long, the smallest 1/32 of an inch.

Many species of ants are beneficial, feasting on termites and other destructive bugs.

The ant, one of the most common insects, is still a big mystery to man.

"We know very little about the ant," said Snelling. "Scientists have been studying them for only 100 years."

"A male ant's life is pretty shabby. Big healthy ants are always females. Scraggly miserable looking ants are always males. It's strictly a female's world."

"The biggest day in a male ant's brief lifespan is the day he mates. When the act of mating is completed in a matter of seconds, the male drops dead."

Snelling says there is one species of California desert ants that goes out early each morning and cuts leaves from the desert shrub.

"The ants chew the leaves, make a mulch, then wait several days for fungus to develop on the mulch. They live on the fungus," Snelling said.

"Another California ant is a pal to aphids and a pain in the neck to gardeners. These ants protect aphids from all enemies, encouraging rapid aphid reproduction."

"Aphid-loving ants wave their antennae over aphids, causing the aphid to secrete a droplet of honey dew, a nectar that has much the same effect on ants that martinis have on humans."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM Evie's After Loot

NEW YORK (NANA)--Van Johnson's estranged wife Evie, is accusing him of hiding all his money in Switzerland in the affluent anonymous bank vaults for which the small country is famous. Evie has taken on a new set of lawyers to prove her point.

The Decca record people heard Ewan MacColl sing and are now trying to sign Agent 007 to a recording contract.

Sybil Barton's reply when I asked if she would ever return to her acting career: "Absolutely no. I was never a leading lady. I was always a Hoyden." Recently when Sybil and Rachel Roberts got together for a gabfest, Rex Harrison, who is married to Rachel, said "You sound like a couple of Welsh witches." Sybil, who is probably the best dancer in New York, told me, "The English girls dance very prettily, but not quite as wild as they do in New York." She concluded: "I find dancing marvelous therapy. You come home absolutely exhilarated." And exhausted.

The film version of The Knacks was highly praised by the critics who saw it at the festival in Cannes. Which means more money for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, who helped with the finances. . . Lucille Ball informed her boss that, come you know what and high water, she will take the month of August from her Lucy TV show, to be with hubby Gary Murten and her children. The boss okayed it. The boss naturally is Lucille Ball.

Jack Warner can't seem to get away from Julie Andrews. In fact he is surrounded by her. The three top-selling record albums are Julie's Mary Poppins, Warner's My Fair Lady, and Julie's Sound of Music. Julie would have made My Fair Lady for less than $100,000. If Jack ever wants her, he will have to pay anything from $500,000 to $750,000. And a percentage.

Cliff Robertson is playing The Game. No, this is not his friendship with socialite actress Diana Merrill--it's chemin de fer, the popular gambling game in England which Cliff has to learn for a Chrysler TV next season. Now he can't wait to go to England to play the real game. Also I believe we can expect some sort of announcement in the romance department.

Got a Bad Back? Why Don't You...

By SYDNEY HARRIS

I was standing, at an angle of 45 degrees, in the lobby of a theatre the other night, when a friend walked up and asked, "What's the matter?" I shrugged, "Just my semi-annual lower back pain. It'll go away in a few days."

"Let me tell you about a wonderful . . ." he began. "No advice, please," I broke in sharply. "If there's one thing I don't want, it's advice." He walked away with a hurt look, and this was my apology to him.

But the worst thing about having a bad back is the advice it brings. Everybody knows an absolutely wonderful man who can cure it in one treatment. Everybody is eager to relate the case-study of a friend or relative who walked into the wonderful man's office like a cripple and walked out cured.

Don't go to anyone but an orthopedic surgeon. Don't go to anyone but an osteopath. Don't go to anyone but a chiropractor. Don't go to anyone but a Swedish masseur. Don't go to anyone, just stay in bed.

Do these few simple exercises. Don't do any exercises. There's a new drug on the market that relieves the spasm immediately. Plain old aspirin will turn the trick. There's nothing better than tranquilizers. A couple of shots of whisky three times a day is better than all the medicine.

If you have a slipped disc, there's no remedy but surgery. Surgery is the worst thing you can have done for it. Try one of those new corsets. Don't wear any contraption; it will just increase the pressure. A couple of injections of cortisone should make a new man out of you. And don't forget the rocking chair.

So it goes. . . incessantly. The most eminent medical men in the world are baffled by the intricacies of the lower back, but someone who doesn't know the iliac from the iliac in a matter of this sort. In no other field does the inverse ratio between ignorance and faith obtain so precisely and predictably.

The exquisite pain of the lumbar region is as nothing compared with the agony of listening to long recitals of similar cases treated by some miracle worker . . . who, alas, is long dead, or long retired, or has moved to Hawaii, or whose name eludes the reciter. They have everything to offer except a phone number.

It will pass, as all things do. And when it does, some bright and lovely morning, I will no doubt approach a friend leaning palely at a 45 degree angle and ask, "What's the matter?" When he tells me it's his back, I'll smile warmly and say, "Now let me tell you how I got rid of my . . ." And should he limp away with a baleful look, I'll be hurt and call him an ungrateful boor under my breath.

Oldest Beatnik Killed on Road

ORILLIA, Ont. — Percy Leggett, Canada's self-styled oldest beatnik, was killed as he walked along the highway on his way to North Bay, about 380 miles north of here.

The 74-year-old eccentric was the victim of one of his own health ideas—he liked walking at night because then he'd miss the dust and the smell of car exhausts. He slept during the day in the roadside grass.

Percy claimed he resigned from the human race when he began receiving his pension at the age of 70 because then he could begin to live the way he wanted.

He was hit by a half-ton truck police said was driven by Charles Edward Lanson, 24, of Newmarket, Ont. Police were trying to locate his next-of-kin, believed to be living in Montreal.

LONDON—Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, "has been thinking of going on the stage" but has no commitments, her secretary said, commenting on reports that she planned to appear in a U.S. production of Sabrina Fair.

BOURNEMOUTH, England — Buzzing bees swarmed around a row of parked cars here. The bees swarmed around the fire engine, trapping the driver and his male inside the cab. Beekeeper Oliver Aldridge, 35, moved in, captured queen bee and took swarm away in a wicker basket.

YREKA, Calif. — A 56-year-old man stung by an estimated 1,800 bees was released from a hospital after nurses pulled stingers from all over his body. Glenn C. Hall, a transient, was attacked as he walked along a road.

NEW YORK — Mayor Robert Wagner of New York has joined the Democratic Party by refusing to run for a record fourth term despite pressure from President Johnson. With tears in his eyes, Mayor Wagner said he was keeping a promise to his late wife.

LONDON — William Moir, who stopped smoking months ago, has quit drinking now. "I'll never buy beer again," the six-year-old promised after an

Princess Lee

Aberdeen shopkeeper was fined $14 for selling him a bottle of stout.

WASHINGTON — Lynda Bird Johnson, the president's 21-year-old daughter, has headed west on a six-week tour of the wide open spaces during which she will write travel articles on historical sites and beauty spots. She is travelling by car and trailer.

SAN FRANCISCO — Motorist Edward Neubauer, 35, has filed a $75,000 suit against San Francisco and San Bruno police, charging false arrest, humiliation and general indignities. Red-faced officials admit Neubauer, arrested last April, paid his $2 parking ticket on time.

DENVER — The lone survivor of a bloody bank robbery at Big Springs, Neb., in which three people were killed, will recover fully, his father, Carl Kjelgaard, 73, vice-president of the Farmers State Bank, told reporters. Franklin Kjelgaard, 35, suffered bullet wounds in the back and neck.

VANCOUVER — Frank Snowball, president of the B.C. New Democratic Party, says the party will draft an official resolution opposing any involvement of Canadian military personnel in the Vietnamese war.

BUDAPEST — Louis (Batsche) Armstrong was acclaimed by 32,000 Hungarians at the end of a concert in a soccer stadium here.

CANBERRA — Australian troops may be used to support South Vietnamese forces if the military situation requires it, Defence Minister Rhona Paltridge told reporters.

WELLINGTON, N.Z. — Prime Minister Keith Holyoake said a New Zealand artillery unit which will leave soon for Viet Nam would not go into offensive action without his government's approval.

LEOPOLDSDORF, The Congo — Complete police have uncovered a plot against the lives of Premier Michel Tshombe and interior minister Goddefroid Munanga, government sources said.

Wedded Strife

Legal Aid

Jumps

The number of legal aid cases handled by the Victoria Bar Association jumped 50 per cent during the last year.

There were more than 250 applications for legal aid between April, 1964, and April, 1965, the association learned at its annual meeting.

"This indicates there has been greater effort by the association to provide free legal advice to the needy, and that there has been more emphasis by the provincial government on this," association president Alan E. Macfarlane said Thursday.

Of the 250, 138 were given advice immediately and 112 were referred to lawyers for action. Of the 112, 35 were criminal cases and the rest civil.

Largest percentage of the cases covered domestic and matrimonial problems.

Mr. Macfarlane is new association president.

Other officers are J. C. Cowan, vice-president; R. W. Chard, treasurer; Kenneth Murphy, secretary-treasurer; W. A. Buchan, corresponding secretary.

The association passed unanimously a resolution to set up a committee to look into "inadequate" facilities of the Coal Harbor Road quarters of the family and juvenile court.

Industry Site Vetoed

An application to establish a furniture plant in a residential area was rejected by city council Thursday, but a further effort will be made to find a suitable site in the city.

"Let's not just turn this down. Let's find a place for these people. This is just the kind of secondary industry the city needs," said Ald. A. W. Toome. The matter will be turned over to the Industrial Development and Research Commission.

The application was to establish the small plant at Wilson and Springfield.

An application to build an apartment block on the shore of Selkirk Water at the end of Catherine Street was referred back to the Advisory Planning Commission for reconsideration, in the light of a city land use plan which is expected in about a month.

The commission advised rejection on the grounds that it was unknown at the moment just what use is to be made of that area or what traffic pattern will be established.

A progress report on a study being made of Cathedral Hill precinct by the planning commission was referred to council committee for study.

Similar treatment was given another study, this time on the subject of whether or not the city should impose controls on the length of high-rise apartment buildings. When the study was ordered months ago, it was felt that too-wide buildings had the effect of blotting out the view for other apartment-dwellers.

Office Theft Totals $433

Two city doctors were robbed of $433 Tuesday night by a thief who may have climbed in an open window on the third floor of the Cook Medical Building, 1175 Cook Street.

Only $123.50 of the total was in cash.

The money belonged to Dr. W. E. Newton and Dr. M. G. Morrison.

The take at another burglary Wednesday was of a different nature. Robland J. Walsh, 1443 Pembroke, reported that he lost a bottle of liquor, a tin of peanut butter, a jar of coffee, 120 tea bags, a five-pound bag of potatoes and two or three cans of milk.

Feet, Arm Removed By Flat Car

TERRACE (CP)—Harry Colinson, 58, had both feet and his right arm severed Wednesday night when a flat car and five tank cars ran over him in the CN Railway yard here. Police said the supervisor was crossing the tracks and apparently failed to see the flat car ahead of an approaching line of tank cars.

Crash Canadian Market

Hard Sell from Britain

With a relaxation of trade restrictions in the April budget, Canadian businessmen can expect the hard sell from British salesmen from now on, Sir Ralph Ferring told members of the Rotary Club Thursday.

United Kingdom firms feel they can now compete and they intend to do so against any sort of competition, said the former lord mayor of London and vice-chairman of the U.K. Committee for Exports to Canada, who is making a cross-country tour.

CHANGE IMBALANCE

He didn't intend to launch "a long rumble" in the imbalance of trade between Britain and Canada, said Sir Ralph, but it is a fact of life.

In 1964 Canada sold goods worth $1,300,000,000 to Britain and bought only $500,000,000, and this has been the prevailing pattern since the mid-50s.

This $800,000,000 deficit totalled nearly half of Britain's trade imbalance with the whole world, he said.

However, it was hoped to change all this, the speaker said.

INVADE MARKET

It was proposed to organize an invasion of the Canadian market, both industrial and consumer, and British businessmen didn't contemplate failure.

One reason it had been impossible to use the hard sell before this, said Sir Ralph, was that Britain had faced discrimination duties and anti-dumping legislation from Canada.

"Many British businessmen found the Canadian hurdle too high. But things are changed now, and we mean to make a great step forward," he said.

Display areas will be set up in the principal cities of Canada to give consumers an idea of what Britain has to offer.

Firms will be supplied with sample ranges, and up-to-date literature with information on Canadian markets will be supplied to British firms.

Design, presentation and Canadian buying habits will all be studied as part of the campaign, and it is possible, with Canadian help, a good number of trade gaps will be filled.

It is hoped to bring many smaller British firms into the trade picture to supply quality and luxury goods which could not be obtained elsewhere, he said.

Yachts Face Sheep

The question of whether people are being fenced out or sheep fenced in on Princess Margaret Island off Swartz Bay will be investigated by the provincial government.

But whether any action can be taken is not known at present.

Complaints have been received by the department of recreation and conservation that farmer Bert Elliot, who keeps sheep on the island, has fenced off a bay which has been used by yachtsmen for years as a campsite.

Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, said officials of the parks and fish and game branch would take a trip to the island.

Here enters the question of jurisdiction.

"As far as I know, the land is owned by Princess Margaret and is therefore private land," said Dr. Turner.

But a spokesman for Princess Margaret from London said the princess wrote the B.C. government two years ago saying the government could do whatever it thought best with the island.

City Clerk, Fire Department Posts

Council Fills Three Positions

Three major staff appointments were made Thursday by city council. In one instance a man was brought up from the ranks to fill the post of deputy chief of the fire department.

From Sept. 1, when the retirement of City Clerk Frank Hunter takes effect, the job will be filled by Morran Waller, now assistant clerk, who has been a city employee since 1933.

NO HESITATION

A letter from City Manager Dennis Young said the appointment of Mr. Waller had been reviewed in detail and he had no hesitation in recommending him for the post.

"I think we are fortunate in having Mr. Waller to step up and I am sure he will do an excellent job," said Mayor Wilson.

After a series of exhaustive tests, Eric Simmons was recommended for the post of deputy fire chief and Lieut. Michael E. Belton for the post of training officer—a rank equivalent to battalion chief.

The fire department appointments were made on the basis of a training and promotion plan recently agreed between the city and the firemen's union, of which Mr. Simmons is president.

NEGOTIATING TEAM

Mr. Simmons was part of the negotiating team which not only thrashed out the matter of a training plan but also new wage rates for firemen.

There were 23 candidates for the two posts and all were submitted to a series of tests by a University of Victoria psychologist.

Tests, some of which lasted

for eight hours, reduced the number of applicants to six. These men were submitted to further testing before appointments were recommended.

Mr. Simmons will take up the appointment as deputy upon the retirement of Chief Abbott on Oct. 31. At that time the present deputy, James B. Allen, will move up to the office of chief.

However, Chief Allen himself is only two years away from retirement age.

MOORE TRAINING

The letter from the city manager to council Thursday points out that after taking the post of deputy, Mr. Simmons will undertake extensive training in the field of department management.

It is assumed, the letter states, that he will be appointed to the office of chief in 1967.

FRUIT and ORNAMENTAL TREES, ROSES

All planted in wholesale containers and thus can be transplanted any time without any damage to root systems or interruption of growth. We have a special fine collection of roses.

TOP SOIL

By far the cheapest and best fertilizer for your lawn and shrubs. If applied as top dressing (one yard for every 600 sq. feet) it will after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made. Top-dressed lawns moreover are far less vulnerable to weeds and most important of all require less watering. In comparison, one dollar will buy only about 15 pounds of fertilizer which at best contains only 3 pounds of plant food. It will therefore only act as a short-lived stimulant without any lasting value.

There is no substitute for weed-free top soil. Remember: The cost of weed-free soil is such that in comparison to the price of weed-free soil, top soil that is infested with weeds has hardly any value.

For best quality black Metcoshin topsoil free of weeds and clay, apply:

By Cabinet

Port Alice 'Town' Approved

The cabinet Thursday approved the official town plan for the district of Port Alice, which becomes the first of B.C.'s new "instant municipalities" June 16.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said it was the first time in this province a municipality has had a comprehensive development plan from its inception.

The plan covers a five-mile stretch of shore on the east side of Nootka Inlet on northern Vancouver Island. The area has three existing settlements.

INDUSTRIAL ZONE

To the south Port Alice, where Rayonier has a large pulp mill, has been zoned an industrial area.

Two miles north on the shore of Inlet is Rumble Beach where a model townsite for some 1,500 has been planned with schools and a fully-equipped shopping and recreation centre.

There is a beach in front of the townsite and offshore water including some small islands are reserved for recreation.

One mile further north is the logging community of Jeune Landing which is to be used for industry and wholesale distribution. Mr. Campbell said another innovation in the plan is designation of wooded hillside behind the community and one either side of it forming a buffer between industrial areas as "open space-forest land."

The zoning will come into effect as soon as the new district receives its letters patent from Lt.-Gov. George Pearkes next Wednesday. Local councils will be able to change zoning, if they wish, the minister said.

MAY ACCOMPANY

Mr. Campbell is expected to accompany the lieutenant-governor after he arrives aboard the RCN destroyer escort HMCS Mackenzie on June 15.

Receiving the letters patent from Mr. Pearkes will be the new municipality's reeve, to be chosen from the seven-man council by themselves before June 16.

Volume Doubled

Picture Loan Business Booming at Gallery

Business is booming at the Art Gallery, especially on picture loan nights.

According to reports at the annual meeting of the Women's Committee to the Art gallery Wednesday evening, the service has doubled in volume over the past four years, with 1,100 paintings loaned since last September.

Groups as well as individuals take advantage of the service, and paintings are to be seen in Royal Roads wardroom, navy ships, and downtown business offices, as well as many private homes.

In her report at the business meeting following dinner, retiring president Mrs. H. Bohus reviewed other money-making activities of the committee.

Woman Embalms

MOOSOMIN, Sask. (CP) — Helen Caracadden is one of two licensed embalmers in Saskatchewan and probably the only woman embalmers in the province. After assisting her husband in the business for several years, Mrs. Caracadden carried on alone when she was widowed.

GROUP SLIMMING

MONTREAL (CP) — Margaret Strong, star member of a weight-lossing club here, says there are few failures because her colleagues work on a group therapy basis. Miss Strong herself went from 270 to 150 pounds with the club's help.

How long would your savings last if disability stopped you from working?

One month? Six months? You probably have insurance to cover crippling medical expenses, but what about loss of income for the time you cannot work? Where will the money come from to keep up payments on your home, your car, your furniture? It has to come from somewhere.

Why not let Manufacturers Life give you an income while you are disabled? It's as simple as that. Here is why our Personal Income Protector Plan is worth investigating.

1. It offers you wide flexibility in amount of income and the length of time it will be paid if you are disabled.

2. For example, you may be able to arrange for income benefits right through to age 65 for total disability due to sickness or for life when an accident is the cause. Accidental death and dismemberment benefits to age 65 are also offered.

3. You can co-ordinate the plan with your other resources; tailor it to your needs and your pocketbook.

4. Manufacturers Life cannot cancel the policy nor can your premium rate be raised—ever.

5. The plan can be set up to put emphasis on long term income benefits and to overcome the inadequacy of any short term coverage you may already have.

If you'd like to learn more, call your Manufacturers Life representative. He'll be glad to give you all the details.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Retirement as defined in a dictionary means seclusion, privacy, secluded place and state of having retired from office. To most of us it is as elusive as the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Not for everyone as time does move ahead and people do retire. Today marks the retirement of one of Victoria's well known eye specialists, Dr. E. H. W. Elkington.

But Dr. Elkington has no plans to sit back and just take it easy. "I'll probably be working harder than ever," he says.

Dr. and Mrs. Elkington have a summer place up on the Malahat with a log house on a 1,000 acres with lakes and streams. That is where they will be going and where Dr. Elkington expects to find plenty to do.

Later on in the summer the Elkingtons are planning a fishing trip at Cold Fish Lake which is about 400 miles north of Smithers getting close to the Yukon border.

Taking over Dr. Elkington's practice is Dr. Norman L. Bailey who arrived here only a few days ago.

Party for Guest

A frequent visitor from the south, Mrs. Marion B. Price arrived last evening and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elie Charman, in their Charles Street home. The Charman will be honoring their visitor and celebrating their second wedding anniversary when they entertain at a sherry party mid-day Saturday.

Back from Vancouver

Back from Vancouver are Mrs. M. G. Hope who lives on Atkins Road, and Mrs. R. E. Waterman from Rocky

The Charman will take Mrs. Price to their summer home at Qualicum for the remainder of the weekend.

Next Wednesday, Mrs. Douglas J. Hunter will give luncheon for Mrs. Price who will be returning to her home in Brentwood, California, in about ten days.

The sisters were in the Mainland city to visit Mr. and Mrs. Clive's Deane-Freeman.

Send Donation For X-ray Room

A sum of $50 was presented to St. Joseph's Hospital for the X-ray room, by members of Camosun Chapter, IOOE, meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Osgood.

It was reported that a garden party will be held July 23 at the home of Mrs. R. V. Campbell, 1716 Fort Street.

An invitation was received from the men of 191 for the Women's Auxiliary to be present at a mortgage burning ceremony on June 19. Mrs. John Aiken, a former member, was re-installed.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A woman who works in our office talks of nothing but Eric, Eric, Eric. Eric is her husband.

She never says "We are going on a vacation." It's always "Eric is taking me on a vacation." I have yet to hear her say, "I bought a new dress." It's always "Eric bought me a new dress." She has never had an idea all by herself. It's "Eric and I think..." or "Eric and I have decided..."

During the election we thought we'd go crazy. It was "Eric says..." Eric predicts... according to Eric... last night when Eric and I were talking.

This woman married late in life and you'd think nobody else in the world has a husband but her. We are all sick of hearing about Eric that we need some outside help in coping with the problem. Any suggestions? —

EARACHE FROM ERIC

DEAR EARACHE: It should be obvious to you that this pathetic woman is so dependent on Eric that she can't have a thought without him. The mere mention of his name is an emotional prop.

Of course it's a big fat bore to listen to Eric this and Eric that day in and day out, but it is her way of fighting loneliness and insecurity.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the mother who cried on your shoulder because her daughter and son-in-law never visit her. The letter sounds suspiciously like something MY mother could have put together.

Since I may be the "thoughtless, selfish, inconsiderate" daughter she described I'd like equal time to present my side.

Why don't Carol and Steve visit you, Mother? Because people go where they feel welcome and comfortable.

Do you nag them and whine because they are ungrateful and unappreciative—"after all you have done for them?" Do you REALLY accept your son-in-law even though he is not of your faith? Or do you subtly compare him with your other son-in-law who is of your faith?

Do you make your daughter feel guilty because she doesn't tell you everything and answer the intimate questions which are none of your business?

Think about these things, Mother, and perhaps you will figure out why you are alone so much. —CAROL

Dear Carol: Here's your letter—and an unusually sharp one it is. Sharper than a serpent's tooth.

Dear Ann Landers: Our handsome 22-year-old son has had several crushes. The girl he is going with now is short and dumpy. She has a homely, expressionless face. Her taste in clothes is atrocious. A soiled brassiere strap is always hanging out.

The girl is so ignorant I don't know how she got out of high school. The note she wrote thanking me for her birthday cake had 11 mistakes.

Our son has brought her home for dinner five times. I wonder if we are being too hospitable. I don't want our son to interpret our kindness to this girl as approval. On the other hand I'm afraid to be unfriendly because he might end up marrying her. Please advise. —THINKING AHEAD

Dear Thinking: I applaud you for being hospitable although it's obvious you dislike the girl intensely. In my view you have chosen the right approach.

Nobody cheered when Joseph Seagram brought his whisky to town.

Worse than that, hardly anybody bought it. That was back in 1883 when he first brought out "83." His sense of timing was terrible. People wanted whisky that burned all the way down. And along came Mr. Seagram with 83, an easy tasting whisky with a civilized, understanding flavor. Our glorious founder might have been in for an inglorious fate, excepting that a strange thing happened. Time passed, and people started clamoring for whisky that was smoother, more gentle. And a lot of unsold 83 was around to meet the demand. So 83, the unwanted, became 83, the very much wanted. Cheers.

CANADA TRUST BUILDING, VIEW AT BROAD, VICTORIA

When Canada Trust opened the doors of its "new" building in Victoria in 1957, it marked a milestone in the growth of Canada's largest independent savings, mortgage and trust company.

But as Victoria has grown, business has expanded for Canada Trust and, to keep pace, the Company has now completed an interior and exterior renovation program as well as adding 750 square feet of space.

While the renovated quarters are brighter and more spacious than before several things remain unchanged. Canada Trust still offers the most friendly and personal service. Canada Trust still offers higher interest rates: 4% on Deposit Accounts, (with interest calculated on MONTHLY balances), 3 1/4% on Savings Accounts (with chequing privileges) and 5 1/4% on Debentures and Trust Certificates. And with longer business hours, customers find that doing business with Canada Trust is more convenient.

First mortgage loans are offered at attractive rates: Canada Trust's many years of experience in estate planning and administration ensures the fullest protection of assets entrusted to its care.

But He Won't Give Up the Chase

Jock Finds Fame Is Fleet

By AL ARNABON

John Dunbar has risen in the world since he tramped the treadmill of Victoria's business community—but not far enough. The barrel-chested ex-miner, known to Victorians as a former manager of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel and CHEK television sales manager, is a headliner in a musical show now playing at the McPherson Playhouse.

He exists in the twilight zone of moderate success. Well-paid and nearly famous, he is able to live well on the Canadian scale in Britain with his Victoria-born wife and their two children—but he feels unfulfilled.

"I need a hit record," he said matter-of-factly in a Scots brogue only slightly broadened since he left Victoria for a singing career in Scotland after 17 years in Canada.

"I'm going back to record some songs for Tany Hatch of Pye Records. He told me, 'There's no reason why you can't have a hit.' If you get one you're made."

From his out-sized elgar to his pale English brogues, he looked serenely confident that the hit is not far away.

He leaned his muscular frame into his chair as he said, "I've followed acts in Britain that are being paid $1,000 a week. The difference between them and me was one hit record."

But his search for the elusive goal of stardom did not keep him from jumping at a trip to Victoria. To make the trip, he said, he spurned a television series from Aberdeen and four prime-time TV specials in Glasgow.

Better known to Victorians as Jock, the entertainer stressed that his part in the four-act show is not all Scottish songs.

"I do the first half with Scottish songs, but the rest is cabaret style—old favorites and ballads," he said.

How does he like his new vocation?

"Oh, I'm doing what I want to do—but it's a rat race."

"British audiences are changing. They are a lot tougher than Canadian audiences. I've seen top acts paid off after the first night."

"I've never been paid off, but I've come off the stage wringing wet with the effort to please them."

He said the old days of the music hall are all but over in the British Isles.

"It's getting like in America. People want the cabaret style of entertainment—drinking and gambling along with the entertainment."

And family life isn't easy to maintain in show business, either, he said.

"I'm away from home a lot. Some years as much as 75 per cent of the time, and sometimes 10 weeks at a time."

Mercury powerheads are inherently quiet... and more powerful. They don't sacrifice power in order to reduce air intake noise by strangling it with plates and baffles. Mercurys get their inherent quiet from the exclusive internal reed valve system deep within the crankcase. # Unity Brings Militia Work of North Surrey, B.C., and Doris Moshi Rombough of Tomahawk, Alta., have agreed to an out-of-court settlement whereby both will receive "a substantial portion of the estate," the North Surrey woman's lawyer, Richard Bird, said Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Sophie Rombough, 65, said her husband went to Alberta to work in 1944 and never came back. She claimed he was the same Robert B. Rombough who won a $30,000 prize in the Cambridgeshire in England, though he died two weeks before the race.

The second Mrs. Rombough also claimed the prize money.

The North Surrey woman was living on social assistance at the time of her husband's death.

EDMONTON (CP)—The move to integrate Canada's armed forces will allow increased concentration on militia units, Maj. Gen. J. M. Rockingham, Officer Commanding Western Command, said Thursday.

He told a press conference commanders have not had enough time recently to work with militia groups. Under the new arrangement, regional commanders will devote a majority of their time with the militia.

AIR FORCE FUNCTIONAL

The adjustment will be much easier for the air force, Maj. Gen. Rockingham said, because the air force has been operating on a "functional" basis longer than the army.

Major reason for the change is to reduce headquarters and administrative staff by 30 per cent as part of an over-all integration policy for Canadian forces.

EQUIPMENT FUNDS

"The money which is saved is intended to be spent on equipment," he said. "Only about 12 per cent of our current budget goes into new equipment and we're aiming at about 25 per cent."

Although he did not have full details, Maj. Gen. Rockingham said it was certain the mobile (active) command will not be reduced.

"Every action probably will have a reaction and we'll go through a rough period of adjustment for everybody, but I'm sure it will work."

When the transition is complete, he said, the armed services will realize "great economies in manpower, property and holdings."

Needle Marks Stay Man Tells Court

A Prince George car salesman was in unlawful possession of narcotics when arrested by RCMP here last March, a Supreme Court jury found Thursday.

The jury made its decision in a case where 37-year-old Norman Bradley is also charged with possession of narcotics for trafficking purposes. Bradley, a former Victorian, pleaded not guilty.

The case has been adjourned until today, when it is expected the jury will consider the trafficking part of the charge.

Bradley and a friend, Robert Paul of New Westminster, were passengers in a taxi stopped on Ladysmith Street by officers of Victoria RCMP detachment last March 26. The two men had come here from Vancouver earlier that day.

According to prosecution evidence, a brown paper bag containing pharmaceutical drugs in liquid and tablet form was found in the taxi.

Paul, convicted Wednesday of possession for trafficking purposes and remanded until today for sentence, testified as both his own trial and Bradley's to sole possession of the drugs.

Admitting he was a drug addict, Paul said he bought the drugs in Vancouver for self-administration in an attempt to break his habit.

In cross-examination in the Bradley trial, prosecutor Rodney Taylor said to Paul: "For some reason best known to yourself, you have endeavored to take all the blame for these drugs."

"The drugs are mine," Paul insisted.

Bradley testified he had not known Paul was carrying drugs. At no time were they in his possession, he said.

Asked by Mr. Taylor when he had his last "fix" (drug shot), Bradley replied, several months before his arrest.

How did Bradley account for the needle marks said by RCMP to have been visible on his arm the night of his arrest? Mr. Taylor asked.

"If you come over here, Mr. Prosecutor, I'll show you the same needle marks," Bradley replied. "They'll never go away."

City Student's Mural Wins $100 for School

A mural painted by a Victoria High School student has won him a first-prize trophy, and $100 for his school.

Barry Marshall, 3861 Thistle, was notified this week that his work had placed first in the mural division of the Pacific National Exhibition's school art contest.

His subject, under the classification "places I'd like to visit," depicts a montage of the sights of London.

The 17-year-old Grade 12 student also won a $50 second prize in a provincial government-sponsored poster contest called B.C. Today. The prize was awarded to the young artist Wednesday at school.

He said he plans to use a $50 art bursary awarded to him by art teacher Mrs. Frances Cameron to help pay for his first year at the Vancouver School of Art.

He plans to become a commercial artist after the four-year art study — provided his application to the school is accepted.

Although he applied at Easter, he has been advised the school has registered all the first-year students it can hold.

"If I have to I'll work for a year," he said.

"I'd like to find an art job or maybe work outdoors for awhile. Maybe I'll get a job on a fishboat."

Vanier Praises

The city staff got a pat on the back Thursday for its work in preparing for the civic reception given at City Hall Wednesday for Governor General George Vanier and Mrs. Vanier.

"It was a good piece of work, and when I said goodbye to His Excellency at the airport Thursday he particularly commented on the work of the motorcycle policemen who escorted his car wherever it went," Mayor Wilson told a council meeting Thursday.

Firemen who ushered at the reception, city staff who prepared the anteroom where it

Old Vic Skits Lack Slickness

By RAY BENNY

Only three dozen people turned out to see a program of two plays and two skits by Old Vic Players last night.

As far as the skits were concerned, Old Vic Players had apparently strayed into an unfamiliar field of the dramatic art, perhaps unknowingly. The two pieces, No Change and Mid-day Fares, offered excellent material but neither, unfortunately, was used to best advantage.

Both, along with all similar presentations, rely for effect largely on characterization, but, due to their natural brevity, the characters must be established immediately.

For this reason they, the business, the movement and everything else must be exaggerated and punctilious timing is a must. In a word, such skits or blackouts have to be slick from start to finish; they can't be played like abbreviated one-act plays.

The play, Message from Khufu, was highlighted by the performance of Vernon McConnell as Ben, who was particularly good at the close.

John Wright as Professor Hardin established a definite and believable character, and the play was nicely acted and lit.

Old Vic Players' festival on-ly, Sganarelle, concluded the program, with Gerald Grant as Sganarelle and Helen Hamilton as his wife. This type of production is far better suited to the company and consequently more successfully produced. Players' director is Miss Owen Hamilton and pianist was Mrs. Jean Stewart.

Court's Power Queried

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. court of appeal reserved judgment on whether a Prince George magistrate had the power to try a juvenile traffic offender in an adult court.

The issue came before the high court when the provincial attorney-general's department appealed an earlier supreme court ruling which had reversed the magistrate's decision.

The appeal court was told Magistrate Stewart tried a Prince George juvenile, David Smith, 17, on a charge of exceeding a 30-mile-per-hour limit, convicted him and levied a $400 fine. The case was heard under the Provincial Summary Convictions Act in adult court, where the fines can be substantially higher than in juvenile court.

Later the supreme court quashed the conviction on the grounds that the Federal Juvenile Delinquents Act did not allow the magistrate to deal with this case in adult court.

Democracy Failure On Campus Says Student Chief

Free rains have disillusioned University of Victoria students with the democratic system, a student leader said Wednesday.

University of Victoria student president Paul Williamson told the UBC Council and Placement Association in Vancouver that democratic attempts by students to counteract the controversial fee increase had proved unsuccessful and were forcing students to look to other methods to express their opinions.

"Society is encouraging, even forcing, students to look to other methods—to the radical, to the anarchistic," he said.

Mr. Williamson said students had tried every reasonable democratic means possible to convince governments of the necessity of keeping tuition fees down. "From the Maritimes to B.C.

they have tried orderly marches, petitions signed by the tax-paying public, innumerable briefs and reports, and discussions around the negotiation table with university officials.

"And yet, from the Maritimes to B.C., the fees continue to rise," he said.

He also said the universities should permit student leaders to attend all Senate and Board of Governors meetings.

"In no other organization would a group holding 25 per cent of the stock and 50 per cent of the population be refused entry to such meetings," he said.

For Vancouver Island

Hydro Not Hopeful Of Lower Gas Rates

B.C. Hydro's reaction to a proposal lowering Vancouver Island gas rates is not very encouraging, Victoria MIA J. Donald Smith said Thursday.

But if Hydro does reject the proposal, Mr. Smith promised, he will continue fighting for lower rates anyway.

Hydro's executive management committee, the Crown corporation's top brass, will consider the proposal at a meeting Monday.

It is contained in a brief from the Victoria - Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association and backed by Mr. Smith and other local businessmen.

Mr. Smith said in conversations with the executive people he felt "the reaction is not very encouraging at the moment."

The CRA has figures showing Greater Victoria restaurants pay twice as much for butane gas as Lower Mainland restaurants pay for natural gas.

If they lose their case, Mr. Smith said, "We'll have to work a little harder. We have an excellent case here and will keep fighting—we shall overcome."

Meanwhile, the man who started it all, local CRA president William Webb, said Thursday he is continuing the fight by collecting signatures from residential gas consumers who believe their rates are too high.

2 out of 3 new Ambassador buyers switched from other manufacturers this year.

(Ambassador sales up 211%)

For thousands of people who had always been loyal to the other makes, 1965 was the year of the big switch. They turned their backs on cars they'd always bought and moved to Ambassador. You can bet they must have had some pretty good reasons. We bet disillusionment was one of them. (When you've put up with rust, rattles and repair bills year after year, you start wondering if you really have to!)

But we think the new Ambassador itself was the most important reason. This year's Ambassador is the biggest, most luxurious ever built—more solid Rambler quality designed for the larger car buyer. And the Ambassador offers more options this year—everything from bucket seats to power disc brakes. Improved performance, too—including the new 232 cu. in. Torque Command Six, the most powerful, smoothest-riding six on the road, and a mighty 327 cu. in. V8. Of course, Ambassador's truly outstanding interior must have sold quite a few people (or was it the big car luxury at a medium price that did the selling?).

No matter what their reasons were, you can probably think of some of your own to go Ambassador. Who knows—maybe the famous Rambler features (Deep Dip Rustproofing, Double Safety Brakes, Ceramic-Armoured Muffler, rattle-free Single Unit Construction) are beginning to make a lot of sense to you. They've already made a lot of sense to thousands of people who were in the same boat.

'I'll Be Around Years to Come'

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — After months of silence, John Diefenbaker Thursday spoke out on the Conservative leadership question.

He will be around, he says, and leading his party "for years to come."

For years?

"You heard me. Get it right. Put it down," he instructed, "for years."

He was reacting, this time with attributable quotes, to a front page report in a Toronto Tory-leaning newspaper that in September, when he reaches 70, he would be retiring.

"Why don't they ask me first, before they write these stories?" he wanted to know.

"If they had asked me, they would have known the truth."

But Mr. Diefenbaker, repeatedly over recent months had been asked, and each time brushed off the question with a wave of his hand or a laugh, but never a direct quote.

After last January's extra-

Fulton Mapping Fight to Finish?

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — E. David Fulton may soon mount a fight-to-the-finish campaign to oust Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker from top spot in Progressive Conservative Party.

He told friends in Montreal last week he plans to make the decision when he meets with his committee by the end of June.

During his recent visit to Ontario and Quebec the 49-year-old former justice minister was urged by several supporters to come into the open and challenge the chief.

He said he wouldn't start the fight unless he was certain he could win. He knows that failure will smash his dreams of becoming prime minister of Canada.

The soft-spoken and articulate Rhodes scholar outlined his views with a tough determination which indicated to some observers he has profited from the drubbing he took as Conservative leader in British Columbia.

Luna Lost

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russian report that Luna 6 will miss the moon by nearly 100,000 miles because of a malfunction in the steering mechanism. It was due hit the moon today.

Eyes Add Ears

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A spokesman for postal workers said Thursday new Fort William post office has 40 devices placed so employee conversations can be monitored.

Robert Walker, president of Postal Employees Association said the group has arranged a meeting with Postmaster-General Rene Tremblay.

The new post office was a centre of controversy last year because of plans for the installation of peepholes in a men's washroom. The employees were successful in keeping peepholes out of the washroom, but accepted them on the working floor.

Mr. Walker said "listening devices are linked with the peepholes: mirror glass of the peepholes can be pushed out a little so conversations on the working floor can be heard."

CANADA, INDIA 'CLOSE'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Shastri of India set foot on the western hemisphere for the first time Thursday.

He said after his arrival by Air India jet from Cairo that his first visit to North America should be to the great country of Canada.

He said during a welcoming ceremony at Uplands Airport that India and Canada are far apart geographically but are very near each other in friendship. Both countries set the highest store on freedom and a democracy which both deeply cherish.

Prime Minister Pearson met Mr. Shastri at the foot of the ramp from the plane which flew from its cockpit two small flags, one the Canadian Maple Leaf and the other the orange-white-green tricolor of India.

Mr. Pearson said that in the 15 years since India's independence the links between the two countries have enlarged and multiplied.

Pyjama Fame

LONDON (Reuters)—The Early Bird communications satellite entered the British export drive Thursday when an air-freight company signalled its New York office that 5,000 pairs of men's pyjamas were being flown across the Atlantic.

Appeasement Not Right But Neither Is War

OTTAWA (UPI)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin warned Thursday that appeasement in Viet Nam would only postpone the day when a "firmer stand" must be taken against Communist aggression.

At the same time, he told the Commons external affairs committee that to seek a solely military solution in the Southeast Asian country carried the danger of bringing Russian military might directly into the conflict.

Insurgency in Thailand?

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI)—U.S. insurgency similar to the one in defense official John McNaughton—South Viet Nam may have been the cause of a Communist-inspired started in Thailand.

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China said that the potentially active combat role for American troops in Viet Nam provided Red China "with an even greater right to send volunteers and join the war against the United States."

"The United States is rapidly heading toward a Korean-type war," the Peking People's Daily said in an editorial.

Women Dismayed

Man Strips at Laundry

COURTENAY—Taking wet clothes to a coin laundry to dry them is one thing, but taking off wet clothes and running around nearly nude in a laundromat is another, as Ernest Price found out here.

Magistrate John Ryland fined Price $20 and gave him a tongue lashing after court was told Price took off all his wet clothes with the exception of an undershirt and was running in and out of the laundry, much to the dismay of the customers, mostly female.

Asked how much he had to drink, Price told police, "a couple of wine," but they were unable to establish whether he meant a couple of drinks or a couple of bottles.

Bloody Battle of Dong Xoai

FOES LOCKED IN KEY TOWN

SAIGON (AP)—A bloody battle for Dong Xoai still hung in the balance today after South Vietnamese government troops retook the district headquarters compound. Strong Viet Cong forces held the remainder of the town and guerrillas presumably still had the airfield under a deadly field of fire.

Cabinet Unity Strained

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Wilson's support of the U.S. decision to provide ground support for South Vietnamese forces may cause a rift in the British cabinet, the Times said Thursday.

The Times said the firmness with which Wilson and his foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, aligned Britain with the latest Washington policy "may be repugnant to other cabinet ministers."

London: The Daily Telegraph said the president should be more communicative about his plans for Viet Nam, but said the United States "has no choice but to fight on until the Communists realize that they cannot win and must negotiate."

Amsterdam: The Dutch Socialist newspaper Het Vrije Volk said it did not wish to call secretary of State Rusk and defence secretary McNamara warmongers, but believes their policies in Viet Nam carry risks for the entire world.

Hamburg: The newspaper Die Welt said "the extension of the U.S. military engagement in Viet Nam should do much to dispel all doubt about America's readiness to defend the freedom of this land more effectively than previously."

Paris: The newspaper Combat said: "Not only are American troops in Viet Nam going to take part directly in the war... but they are going to be more numerous. So ends the fiction put out up to now that American troops were in Viet Nam only to 'advise.'"

A U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said intensive fire was reported throughout the hours of darkness and 21 air sorties were flown against Viet Cong positions at the district capital, 60 miles north of Saigon.

They said they had no reports on the results of the air strikes, but all aircraft expended bombs and other fire-power during the attack.

HELICOPTERS LOST

The spokesman said the last report listed one American killed, 13 wounded and 17 missing. This total of American casualties included the crews of two helicopters lost during the fighting Thursday. The military officials here said at least four Americans were aboard each helicopter.

The original defenders at Dong Xoai were making a last-ditch stand when Brig.-Gen.

Viet Nam 'Dirty Affair'

PARIS (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle said Thursday night the United States is involved in "a dirty affair" in Viet Nam.

He said "Americans with their tanks, their trucks and their airplanes, must realize that there are others in the world than themselves and the Soviet Union."

"When that happens, things will go better because we have nothing against them."

Williamson enters car on way to jail

Williamson: Six Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—Public relations man Al Williamson was sentenced Thursday to six months in jail and fined $1,000 in Supreme Court here for forging and uttering the "Dear Hal" letter.

Williamson, 60, collapsed in the prisoner's box when found guilty last Friday. He was pale and shivering when sentenced by Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe.

He embraced and kissed his sobbing wife before he was taken into custody prior to transfer to Oakalla jail to serve the sentence.

"FORGIVE THEM"
"Dear God, forgive them," sobbed his wife.

Williamson received the fine and jail term for forging a letter to prime ministerial aide Hal Dornan in the name of Premier Bennett.

He received a concurrent term of six months on the second charge of uttering the forgery—causing Mr. Dornan to act on the letter as if it were genuine.

Mr. Justice Munroe said the $1,000 fine must be paid by July 30 or Williamson must serve an additional six months.

MAY APPEAL
Williamson's lawyers, Lloyd McKenzie and Tom Braidwood, said the matter of appeal is under consideration.

In passing sentence, the justice said he took into consideration Williamson's age, previous good conduct, and the jury's

Einar Must Go! Opposition Chorus

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Leaders of B.C.'s three opposition parties joined Thursday in a demand for Einar Gunderson to resign his government jobs.

The move came on the heels of Mr. Gunderson's earlier admission that he is in charge of Secret campaign funds. He holds appointments with the PGE, B.C. Hydro, B.C. Ferry, UBC and the Bank of B.C.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said it was intolerable that the Secret "No. 1 bagman" should also occupy these positions of great influence.

"Mr. Gunderson should resign and dedicate himself full-time, if he wishes, to raising money for Social Credit. I'm not disputing the right to collect funds for a political party. I just don't think the man who does it should wear two hats."

In Kamloops, Conservative leader E. David Fulton also called for Mr. Gunderson's resignation.

"Mr. Gunderson's resignation from the various political offices he holds or as director of the Social Credit political fund—or both—is clearly called for," the Tory leader said.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said he held Premier Bennett "completely responsible" for the development of what he termed machine politics in B.C.

"All the hand-washing and blind-eye work cannot absolve the premier from this responsibility," said Mr. Strachan.

"If he wishes to rectify this shocking situation, the premier must immediately rescind all Gunderson appointments and institute a general cleanup of Social Credit. Gunderson and the backroom boys must go."

Mr. Strachan said the record supports NDP charges that Secret "shake down business" to obtain campaign funds.

"The present government of B.C. is nothing more than government by bagmen and bucklers..." the NDP leader said.

Derailed

CRANBROOK (CP)—Twenty-nine cars wound up along the banks of the Kootenay River and two 100-yard sections of track were torn up Thursday when a Canadian Pacific Railway mixed freight train left the rails 26 miles south of here.

Some of the derailed cars were twisted and smashed. About 35 of them were loaded with coal bound for shipment from Vancouver to Japan.

Jostled Pope Salutes Old Martyr of Science

PISA, Italy (Reuters)—A Galileo, who was forced by the milling crowd of 100,000 jostled and pushed Pope Paul here Thursday on his first trip outside Rome since his visit to India last year.

Police barriers were broken and the Pope had to force his way through a hectic rush to his car with his hands above his head.

The Pope, attending the Italian National Eucharistic Congress, earlier paid tribute to one of Pisa's most famous sons—

$550,000 Centre Proposed For Centenary

Indian Chiefs Meet Vanier

NANAIMO—About 20 Vancouver Island Indian leaders met informally with Governor General and Mme. George Vanier at government house in Victoria Wednesday.

Mrs. Douglas White, wife of Nanaimo chief, said Mme. Vanier encouraged the group to keep up their Indian traditions.

Others attending the tea were Chief and Mrs. Edwin Underwood of Saanich, Rodway Bevan, president of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society, Chief Philip Paul of the Tsartlip band, Chief and Mrs. White of Nanaimo and Chief and Mrs. Billy Hunt of Victoria.

NANAIMO—The centennial committee in co-operation with city council and officials of Nanaimo Curling Club is drawing up plans for a $550,000, 1,000-seat theatre, a curling and ice skating rink, a museum and a new tourist bureau for 1967.

Frank Newy, chairman of the centennial committee, said the recreation centre will be located on land adjacent to the civic arena. The site of the old Madill mill and reclaimed waterfront will also be available.

He said plans call for the construction of an extension to Front Street and a large parking area. Federal and provincial centennial grants, urban renewal and winter works grants would take care of a major part of the cost of the complex he said.

WE SPECIALIZE IN:

- Reconditioning of lawns that are in bad shape.
- Rearranging overgrown gardens so there will be far less upkeep and yet the garden looks much better.

FRUIT and ORNAMENTAL TREES, ROSES
All planted in wholesale containers and thus can be transplanted any time without any damage to root systems or interruption of growth. We have a special fine collection of roses.

TOP SOIL

By far the cheapest and best fertilizer for your lawn and shrubs. If applied as top dressing (one yard for every 600 sq. feet) it will after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made. Top-dressed lawns moreover are far less vulnerable to weeds and most important of all require less watering. In comparison, one dollar will buy only about 15 pounds of fertilizer which at best contains only 3 pounds of plant food. It will therefore only act as a shortlived stimulant without any lasting value.

There is no substitute for weedfree top soil. Remember: The cost of weedfree soil is such that in comparison to the price of weedfree soil, top soil that is infested with weeds has hardly any value.

For best quality Black Nitrochloa topsoil free of weeds and clay, apply:

Helper's Efforts in Vain

Metalworker's Death Accidental

NANAIMO—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Lady-smith sheet metalworker John Edward Gould, 28, brought in a verdict of accidental death with no negligence on the part of Gould or his employers.

Gould died May 27 in St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria, after being burned in an accident May 13 while working on the Yarrow's Ltd., building north of Nanaimo.

UP ON SCAFFOLD—Employed by Warwick Metal Workers Ltd., of Nanaimo, Gould and a helper, Frederick Roy Parlee, were installing metal eavestroughs on the building prior to roofing.

The jury and Coroner Russell Inkster was told the two men were working on a narrow scaffold about 40 feet from the ground.

Parlee testified they were using a firepot for heating soldering and it wasn't working properly.

Gould turned a valve on the pot's pump to get more heat, air pressure built up, blew out the valve and naphtha gas sprayed over Gould.

Parlee said Gould tried to stop the flow of gas with his thumb but the gas spraying back over the pump and Gould ignited the gas covering Gould with flames.

Parlee said he tried to put out the flames with his own jacket and when that failed began tearing off Gould's clothes. A fire extinguisher from the office below the men was put on a rope for Parlee to haul up but it hit the side of the building and was triggered. By the time the extinguisher reached Parlee it was almost empty.

BADLY BURNED

Dr. J. E. Johnson, testified Gould had severe burns to 70 per cent of his body.

He survived, was taken to hospital in Victoria where a team of plastic surgeons and specialists in internal medicine cared for him. However, bacterial infection spread through his blood stream and he died May 27, Dr. Johnson said.

The jury added in a rider that in future cases of men working with fire pots, fire extinguishers should be handier.

Airman Killed In Car Crash

Buttle Lake Accident

Plane Flips, Four Escape

CAMPBELL RIVER—A pilot and three passengers of an amphibious aircraft escaped injury when the plane turned over while landing on Buttle Lake.

The Lake LA-4 aircraft, caught in a combination of a strong cross-wind and high waves, flipped over and sank near the Western Mines dock at Myra Falls on the south end of the lake.

SMALL BOAT

Pilot Harvey Hahn and three Newfoundland miners being flown to the mine site by Trans-Mountain Air Services escaped from the sinking craft, a spokesman for Trans-Mountain said. They were picked up by a small boat from the Western Mines dock.

The new amphibian was added by Trans-Mountain to its fleet just a month ago.

PLANE SALVAGED

President of the company Bill McAdam and his engineer, along with department of transport officials, have been on the scene, salvaging the aircraft.

It was brought out by barge to Strathcona Park lodge and from there by flat deck truck to Campbell River where the damaged float will be replaced and the new aircraft checked by engineers and the department of transport.

Port Police Probing Naked Runner Caper

PORT ALBERNI—RCMP is continuing its investigation of two reports of a naked man seen in various parts of the city, and has asked citizens to report immediately anyone seen acting in a suspicious manner or loitering near school grounds or wooded areas.

An eight-year-old girl, accompanied by two other girls, reported she had seen the man near the intersection of 15th Avenue South and McRae as they were returning to Macpherson elementary school and later the same day a resident told police a nude man had been seen running south on Eighth avenue.

Police patrols have been concentrated in the areas, Sgt. R. Harding said.

At Mac-Powell Mill

Office Workers Accept Proposal

PORT ALBERNI—More than 40 office workers at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited's pulp mill here voted Thursday to accept a conciliation officer's recommendation for a new contract.

The company is still considering the report.

It would replace a one-year contract signed following a lengthy general strike at the pulp operation last year triggered by a walkout of office employees. The contract expired last April.

ACROSS-THE-BOARD

Conciliation officer William McLaughlin recommended a five per cent across-the-board increase in a 14-month contract based on a 37½-hour work week. The contract would be retroactive to April 1.

The union had sought increase of eight per cent for higher-paid workers and 10 per cent for employees in the lower wage categories.

The company had offered a six per cent across-the-board increase in an 18-month contract.

SEVEN-WEEK STRIKE
In the summer of 1964 the MBPR pulp-paper complex here underwent a seven-week strike when 61 office workers set up picket lines and 2,000 mill workers refused to cross them.

Another 1,000 woods workers were laid off before the strike ended with agreement to proposals suggested by Premier Bennett, including binding arbitration of a pay dispute and a compromise union security plan under which all employees would pay union dues but would not have to join the union.

ECONOMY DEPRESSED

The company estimated the strike cost at least $15,000.00 in production and said the wage loss to employees approached $1,000,000.

It had a depressing economic effect on the Alberni Valley which depends mainly on MBPR operations.

Nanaimo Inquest

Second Verdict Blames Other Driver

NANAIMO—A coroner's jury brought in a second verdict Wednesday night blaming the driver of another car in the May 24 traffic death of Nanaimo taxi driver Andrew Jolly.

Mr. Jolly, about 38, died of injuries two days after his cab was in collision with a car driven by Leonard Vallance at the intersection of Bruce Avenue and Fifth Street.

LUNG PUNCTURED

Medical testimony showed death was caused by complications arising from a punctured lung.

The jury ruled the May 22 collision was caused by Mr. Vallance failing to stop at the stop sign at Fifth Street.

The jury made its ruling after being asked by Coroner Russell Inkster to reconsider its original verdict.

Earlier the jury had recommended that the stop sign at Bruce and Fifth be placed closer to the pavement so they could be more easily seen.

Mr. Vallance, of West Farms at East Wellington, told the jury he was on his way to Nanaimo weigh scales when he became lost in the Harewood area.

FIRST TIME

He said it was the first time he had ever driven on Bruce Avenue and he didn't notice the stop sign at Fifth Street until it was too late.

Mr. Jolly, a driver for City Taxi, was taking a fare to the Indian Hospital.

Survey Traces Sockeye Moves

NANAIMO—No attempt will be made this year to forecast the abundance of salmon runs, says Dr. Michael P. Shepard, head of a joint Canadian-American fisheries experiment in the north Pacific.

The report from the Pacific Biological Station here could form a basis of assessments of the abundance of various salmon stocks in future years.

JOINT SURVEY

The surface longline fishing survey is being conducted in the Gulf of Alaska by the Fisheries Research Board of Canada in co-operation with the Fisheries Research Institute of Washington.

The operation which began in early April and continues until mid-June involves three vessels from Canada and three from the United States.

The Canadian vessels G. B. Reed, Canadian No. 1 and T. W. Sea Queen left Nanaimo April 3, made two cruises of offshore regions in the Gulf of Alaska and returned to B.C. waters about May 11.

Dr. Shepard said the survey has shed light on the origin of sockeye in certain parts of the Gulf of Alaska. Almost all sockeye originating in B.C. streams spend only one year in fresh water before migrating to the sea. Many Alaska sockeye, particularly those of Bristol Bay, spend two years in fresh water.

Dr. Shepard said sockeye spending two years in fresh water were dominant in the Gulf of Alaska, particularly in the north and western parts where catches were noticeably higher than in 1963.

LARGE CATCHES

In the central part of the gulf, catches were consistently high, mostly exceeding 100 sockeye per 1,000 hooks. Almost all sockeye caught by longlines in April and May were maturing fish destined to spawn this year.

Problems of relating size of catch to abundance of fish are under active study, but Dr. Shepard warned that in the meantime attempts to make precise numerical comparisons of abundance from year to year should be approached with caution.

BIG DIFFERENCE

The report said early season longline catches of pinks in even-numbered years in the eastern part of the gulf tend to be considerably higher than those of odd-numbered years.

Dr. Shepard said one reason for the difference may be that in odd-numbered years late spawning stocks such as those of the Fraser River system are more important than in even-numbered years.

All Eggs in One Bollard

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD—The swallows are nesting on the Salt Spring Queen, the Fulford-Swartz Bay ferry and soon the crew may be baby-sitting.

Half-way to Fulford from Swartz Bay this week, a small swallow zoomed out of the sky, took a swing around the ship and came in for a landing.

For a while she balanced on the rail, looking around, then bolted in a hole in a bollard on the port side of the ship.

The bollard looks like a giant T for a water pipe on which the crew hitched ropes, and it has a hole in it, exactly swallow-size.

There the swallow stayed all the way into Fulford dock.

"The swallows spotted the hole on the bollard when they came for a ferry ride, half way to Swartz Bay," Capt. Leslie Mollet said.

"They investigated and took over."

Some years ago swallows nested in the beams of the Pender Queen when she was on this route but gave up after the ferry was re-routed to the outer islands.

This week's swallows are now proteges of the ferry crew.

"The swallows are on the ferry all the time now, Capt. Edward Lacy said. Before this week they only met the ship half way across and no one was sure if they would stay aboard.

But there is no question now, the swallows are settled. Very shortly, the crew will be stepping softly as the eggs are hatched, and that's where the baby-sitting might come in.

Driving Restricted to Work

Too Much to Drink Impaired Man Admits

DUNCAN—A man who told police he had had "too damn much" to drink, was fined $100 by Magistrate Lance Heard after pleading guilty to an impaired charge.

Ronald E. Petre, found by police in an intoxicated state behind the wheel of his vehicle, was also restricted for six months the use of his car for work only.

Court was told Petre's blood alcohol content registered .22 per cent.

Yachts vs. Sheep

Can Ewe Ram Ship?

By BOB FETHICK

The question of whether people are being fenced out or sheep fenced in on Princess Margaret Island off Swartz Bay will be investigated by the provincial government.

But whether any action can be taken is not known at present.

Complaints have been received by the department of recreation and conservation that farmer Bert Elliot, who keeps sheep on the island, has fenced off a bay which has been used by yachtsmen for years as a campsite.

Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, said officials of the parks and fish and game branch would take a trip to the island.

Here enters the question of jurisdiction.

"As far as I know, the land is owned by Princess Margaret and is therefore private land," said Dr. Turner.

But a spokesman for Princess Margaret from London said the princess wrote the B.C. government two years ago saying the government could do whatever it thought best with the island. The yachtmen have no quarrel with the idea of running sheep on the island.

This does annoy them:

They cannot get up on the island to pitch a tent.

Campsite improvements put up by boaters over the years, such as enclosed privies, tables, fireplaces and a set of steps built up the bluff from the beach have been destroyed, the yachtmen say.

This would appear to be a victory for the sheep.

So until the question of jurisdiction is settled once and for all it is just too h-a-a-a-a-a for the yachtmen.

Cabinet Okays Town Plan For Port Alice

By IAN STREET

Colonist Legislative Reporter

The cabinet Thursday approved the official town plan for the district of Port Alice, which becomes the first of B.C.'s new "instant municipalities" June 16.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said it was the first time in this province a municipality has had a comprehensive development plan from its inception.

The plan covers a five-mile stretch of shore on the east side of Nerouton Inlet on northern Vancouver Island. The area has three existing settlements.

INDUSTRIAL BONE

To the south Port Alice, where Rayonier has a large pulp mill, has been zoned an industrial area.

Two miles north on the shore of inlet is Rumble Beach where a model townsite for some 1,500 has been planned with schools and a fully-equipped shopping and recreation centre. There is a beach in front of the townsite and offshore water including some small islands are reserved for recreation.

One mile further north is the logging community of Jeune

Landing which is to be zoned industry and wholesale distribution.

Mr. Campbell said another innovation in the plan is designation of wooded hillside behind the community and one either side of it forming a buffer between industrial zones as "open space-forest land."

The zoning will come into effect as soon as the new district receives its letters patent from Lt.-Gov. George Pearkes next Wednesday. Local councils will be able to change zoning, if they wish, the minister said.

MAY ACCOMPANY

Mr. Campbell is expected to accompany the lieutenant-governor after he arrives aboard the RCN destroyer escort HMCS Mackenzie on June 15.

Receiving the letters patent from Mr. Pearkes will be the new municipality's reeve, to be chosen from the seven-man council by themselves before June 16.

Four of the seven were elected last Saturday in what was described as an "exceptionally good turnout at the polls."

NEW COUNCILLORS

Elected were Edward Forch, bleach plant operator, 129 votes; John Van Der Elst, 122; Rowland Scott, electrician, 111, and H. Von Hockhauf, finishing room clerk, 68.

Some 106 ballots were cast at three polling stations at Port Alice, Rumble Beach and Jeune Landing.

The other three councillors were appointed to their posts. Richard Manders to represent the Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union, J. W. Fraser, Rayonier Company resident manager and M. L. Smith, assistant resident manager.

Port Alice will be the first of five new "instant" municipalities now being created on the north island. The others now organizing are Port Hardy, Port McNeill, Kelsey Bay and Gold River.

OPPOSITION: EINAR MUST GO

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Leaders of B.C.'s three opposition parties joined Thursday in a demand for Einar Gunderson to resign his government jobs. The move came on the heels of Mr. Gunderson's earlier admission that he is in charge of Soerod campaign funds. He holds appointments with the PGE, B.C. Hydro, B.C. Ferry, UBC and the Bank of B.C.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said it was intolerable that the Soerod "No. 1 bagman" should also occupy these positions of great influence.

"Mr. Gunderson should resign and devote himself full-time, if he wishes, to raising money for Social Credit. I'm not disputing the right to collect funds for a political party. I just don't think the man who does it should wear two hats."

In Kamloops, Conservative leader E. Davis Fulton also called for Mr. Gunderson's resignation.

"Mr. Gunderson's resignation from the various political offices he holds or as director of the Social Credit political fund — or both — is clearly called for," the Tory leader said.

Opposition Leader Robert Bennett "completely responsible" for the development of what he termed machine politics in B.C.

"All the hand-washing and blind-eye work cannot absolve the premier from this responsibility," said Mr. Strachan.

"If he wishes to rectify this shocking situation, the premier must immediately rescind all Gunderson appointments and institute a general cleanup of Social Credit. Gunderson and the backroom boys must go."

Mr. Strachan said the record supports NDP charges that Soerod "shake down business" to obtain campaign funds.

"The present government of B.C. is nothing more than government by bagmen and backstagers..." the NDP leader said.

Eyes Add Ears

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A spokesman for postal workers said Thursday new Fort William post office has 40 devices placed so employee conversations can be monitored.

Robert Walker, president of Postal Employees Association said the group has arranged a meeting with Postmaster-General Rene Tremblay.

The new post office was a centre of controversy last year because of plans for the installation of peepholes in a men's washroom. The employees were successful in keeping peepholes out of the washroom, but accepted them on the working floor.

Mr. Walker said "listening devices are linked with the peepholes: mirror glass of the peephole can be pushed out a little so conversations on the working floor can be heard."

CANADA, INDIA 'CLOSE'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Shastri of India set foot on the western hemisphere for the first time Thursday.

He said after his arrival by Air India jet from Cairo that it was especially fitting that his first visit to North America should be to the great country of Canada.

He said during a welcoming ceremony at Upplands Airport that India and Canada are far apart geographically but are very near each other in friendship. Both countries set the highest shore on freedom and democracy which both deeply cherish.

Prime Minister Pearson met Mr. Shastri at the foot of the ramp from the plane which flew from its cockpit two small flags, one the Canadian Maple Leaf and the other the orange-white-green tricolor of India.

Mr. Pearson said that in the 15 years since India's independence the links between the two countries have enlarged and multiplied.

Appeasement Not Right But Neither Is War

OTTAWA (UPI)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin warned Thursday that appeasement in Viet Nam would only postpone the day when a "firmer stand" must be taken against Communist aggression.

At the same time, he told the Commons external affairs committee that to seek a solely military solution in the Southeast Asian country carried the danger of bringing Russian military might directly into the conflict.

Insurgency in Thailand?

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI)—U.S. defence official John McNaughton says a Communist-inspired insurgency similar to the one in South Viet Nam may be started in Thailand.

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China said that the potentially active combat role for American troops in Viet Nam provided Red China "with an even greater right to send volunteers and join the war against the United States."

"The United States is rapidly heading toward a Korean-type war," the Peking People's Daily said in an editorial.

Women Dismayed

Man Strips at Laundry

COURTENAY—Taking wet clothes to a coin laundry to dry them is one thing, but taking off wet clothes and running around nearly nude in a laundromat is another, as Ernest Price found out here.

Magistrate John Ryland fined Price $20 and gave him a tongue lashing after court was told Price took off all his wet clothes with the exception of an undershirt and was running in and out of the laundry, much to the dismay of the customers, mostly female. Asked how much he had to drink, Price told police, "a couple of wine," but they were unable to establish whether he meant a couple of drinks or a couple of bottles.

Foes Locked In Battle For Key Town

SAIGON (AP)—A bloody battle for Dong Xoai still hung in the balance today after South Vietnamese government troops retook the district headquarters compound. Strong Viet Cong forces held the remainder of the town and guerrillas presumably still had the airfield under a deadly field of fire.

Cabinet Unity Strained

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Wilson's support of the U.S. decision to provide ground support for South Vietnamese forces may cause a rift in the British cabinet, the Times said Thursday.

The Times said the firmness with which Wilson and his foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, aligned Britain with the latest Washington policy "may be repugnant to other cabinet ministers."

London: The Daily Telegraph said the president should be more communicative about his plans for Viet Nam, but said the United States "has no choice but to fight on until the Communists realize that they cannot win and must negotiate."

Amsterdam: The Dutch Socialist newspaper Het Vrije Volk said it did not wish to call secretary of State Rusk and defence secretary McNamara warmongers, but believes their policies in Viet Nam carry risks for the entire world.

Hamburg: The newspaper Die Welt said "the extension of the U.S. military engagement in Viet Nam should do much to dispel all doubt about America's readiness to defend the freedom of this land more effectively than previously."

Paris: The newspaper Combat said: "Not only are American troops in Viet Nam going to take part directly in the war... but they are going to be more numerous. So ends the fiction put out up to now that American troops were in Viet Nam only to 'advise'."

A U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said harassing fire was reported throughout the hours of darkness and 21 air strikes were flown against Viet Cong positions at the district capital, 60 miles north of Saigon.

They said they had no reports on the results of the air strikes, but all aircraft expended bombs and other fire-power during the attack.

HELICOPTERS LOST

The spokesman said the last report listed one American killed, 13 wounded and 17 missing. This total of American casualties included the crews of two helicopters lost during the fighting Thursday. The military officials here said at least four Americans were aboard each helicopter.

PARIS (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle said Thursday night the United States is involved in "a dirty affair" in Viet Nam.

He said "Americans with their tanks, their trucks and their airplanes, must realize that there are others in the world than themselves and the Soviet Union."

"When that happens, things will go better because we have nothing against them."

Williamson enters car on way to jail

Williamson: Six Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—Public relations man Al Williamson was sentenced Thursday to six months in jail and fined $1,000 in Supreme Court here for forging and uttering the "Dear Hal" letter.

Williamson, 60, collapsed in the prisoner's box when found guilty last Friday. He was pale but stoic when sentenced by Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe.

He embraced and kissed his sobbing wife before he was taken into custody prior to transfer to Oakalla jail to serve the sentence.

'FORGIVE THEM'

"Dear God, forgive them," sobbed his wife.

Williamson received the fine and jail term for forging a letter to prime ministerial aide Hal Dornan in the name of Premier Bennett.

He received a concurrent term of six months on the second charge of uttering the forgery—causing Mr. Dornan to act on the letter as if it were genuine. Mr. Justice Munroe said the $1,000 fine must be paid by July 30 or Williamson must serve an additional six months.

MAY APPEAL

Williamson's lawyers, Lloyd McKenzie and Tom Braidwood, said the matter of appeal is under consideration.

In passing sentence, the justice said he took into consideration Williamson's age, previous good conduct, and the jury's

Fulton Mapping Fight to Finish?

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — E. Davis Fulton may soon mount a fight-to-the-finish campaign to oust Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker from top spot in Progressive Conservative Party.

He told friends in Montreal last week he plans to make the decision when he meets with his committee by the end of June.

During his recent visit to Ontario and Quebec the 49-year-old former justice minister was urged by several supporters to come into the open and challenge the chief.

He said he wouldn't start the fight unless he was certain he could win. He knows that failure will smash his dreams of becoming prime minister of Canada.

The soft-spoken and articulate Rhodes scholar outlined his views with a tough determination which indicated to some observers he has profited from the drubbing he took as Conservative leader in British Columbia.

'I'll Be Here Years'

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — After months of silence, John Diefenbaker Thursday spoke out on the Conservative leadership question.

He will be around, he says, and leading his party "for years to come."

For years?

"You heard me. Get it right. Put it down," he instructed, "for years."

He was reacting, this time within attributable quotes, to a front page report in a Toronto Tory-leaning newspaper that in September, when he reaches 70, he would be retiring.

"Why don't they ask me first, before they write those stories?" he wanted to know.

"If they had asked me, they would have known the truth." But Mr. Diefenbaker, repeatedly over recent months had been asked, and each time brushed off the question with a wave of his hand or a laugh, but never a direct quote.

After last January's extra-

Jostled Pope Salutes

PISA, Italy (Reuters) — A milling crowd of 100,000 jostled and pushed Pope Paul here Thursday on his first trip outside Rome since his visit to India last year.

Police barriers were broken and the Pope had to force his way through a hectic rush to his car with his hands above his head.

Thé Pope, attending the Italian National Eucharistic Congress, earlier paid tribute to one of Pisa's most famous sons—Galileo, who was forced by the Roman Catholic Church in 1633 to recant his teaching that the earth moves around the sun.

He saluted the people of Tuscany for "the faith of your saints, the faith of the great spirits whose immortal memory is celebrated—Galileo, Michelangelo and Dante."
